SPLENDID ROADS THROUGH STATE NOW CERTAINTY

State House Officers Are Enthusiastic Over Constitution's Contest

A NOTABLE MOVEMENT, SAYS GENERAL EVANS

Commissioner Williams, Treasurer Brown, Chairman McLendon and Commissioner Hudson Join in Praising Plan. Wright, Candler, Pound, Stevens and Cook See Good Results.

Enthusiastic interest is manifested at the state capitol in The Constitution's $5,000 automobile endurance contest, and particularly in the impetus which it will give to good roads building throughout the state.

It was a subject of general discussion among capitol officials, who see in it effective encouragement to Georgia counties in coordinating their road improvements in a manner to bring about the best state as well as local results.

Comment on all sides pointed particularly to the value of this movement to the Georgia farmer, especially to the owner of the one-horse wagon, who will be the greatest ultimate beneficiary of this enterprise and its attendant results.

Particularly interested in the project were the members of the prison commission, who are seeking in every way possible to cooperate with the counties which have taken state convicts for the purpose of improving their road systems.

Chairman Joseph S. Turner, General Clement A. Evans and Captain Wiley Williams, members of the commission, have become good roads enthusiasts; they are making it a study at every point to encourage not only the building of good roads, but systematic and coordinated work in this direction which will produce results that will best subserve the interests of the whole state.

The members of the commission are, therefore, glad to give cordial indorsement to whatever will tend to strengthen this movement; that The Constitution's automobile endurance contests will have that effect, they are confident.

What General Evans Says.

"The Constitution's contest is a notable movement," General Evans said, "and one which will attract wide attention. I have no question that it will give great impetus to the road-building project throughout the state.

"Each county should work with a view to connecting its roads with those of its neighbor. The new road law under which we are operating is extraordinarily favorable not only to the development of good roads in the county itself, but to the construction of long roads throughout the state.

"The importance of such roads, it seems to me, is not a question that admits of counter-argument. They will be of value to the state, but of greater value to each community which they serve.

"It is the purpose of the commission to do all within its power to encourage coordinate and systematic road building all over the state. The Constitution's contest, I have no question, will prove an important factor in bringing about this valuable result."

Captain Williams' Views.

Captain Wiley Williams is a "long-roads" enthusiast. His suggestion of a road across the state, north and south, from Rossville to Chattanooga, and another, east and west, from Columbus, through Macon to Augusta, was first published in an interview which he gave The Constitution.

"Roads crossing and recrossing the state are what we need," Captain Williams said, "and The Constitution has gone about the matter in the right way.

"Those automobile contests right here on our Georgia roads will serve better than anything else to give impetus to this movement. The scheme is great, and there is no doubt in my mind that it is going to bring results.

"Why, I see that many of the counties are already getting busy since its announcement, and are making active efforts toward linking up their roads with those adjoining them

"You've got the right idea; stimulate the good roads building here at home. That's where we need it, and it's going to do Georgia more good than any movement we have set on foot since the war.

"The people can count on the prison commission doing its part. Georgia needs the roads and we are not going to leave anything undone that will help get them."

Commissioner Hudson Talks.

"The untimate benefit from good roads goes direct to the farmer," said Commissioner of Agriculture T. G. Hudson, "and we are, therefore, interested in anything which is going to stimulate that work and bring earlier and speedier results.

"I have looked at the matter from every standpoint, and I cannot see but that The Constitution's proposed automobile contest means, in its last analysis, increased value for the farm and, by reason of cheapened road transportation, better prices for farm products.

"The man with the one-horse wagon is the man who is going to get more out of road improvement than anyone else.

"I want to see the counties come

FITZGERALD---$1,000 FOR GEORGIA ROADS

Hustling South Georgia City Quick to Make Offer as Special Inducement for State Thoroughfare Through Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Put Fitzgerald down for $1,000 towards The Constitution's great Georgia good roads enterprise.

This town has the livest automobile association of any city of its size in Georgia, and a most interesting series of automobile races have been planned for this place on the 17th, 18th and 19th of June.

The Constitution's suggestion of a state-wide enterprise has struck the whole town in a heap, as it were, and Hon. J. E. Mercer has announced that Fitzgerald and Ben Hill county will raise $1,000 as part of the general state prize fund. It is planned that Fitzgerald is to be on the direct route toward Jacksonville and Brunswick, and to make this the central starting point for central south Georgia, covering the territory east of the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad and the Southern line between Macon and Brunswick.

The movement under way now to bring all the county commissioners of the counties embraced in this section in a general meeting at the time of the automobile races here, at which meeting details will be agreed upon for the Fitzgerald route as part of The Constitution's great state contest.

Fitzgerald's Thousand-Dollar Offer.

Hon. J. E. Mercer's telegram to The Constitution is as follows:

"Fitzgerald, Ga., May 17.—Editor Constitution: Your automobile feature of Sunday's Constitution caught Fitzgerald in the right mood.

"With a well-organized automobile association we propose to stand to the front and give the movement all the encouragement you could wish. Indeed, we had already on foot a plan to offer prizes for the best stretch of road through any county between Fitzgerald and Waycross by the way of Douglas, through the counties of Ben Hill, Irwin, Coffee and Ware, and between Fitzgerald and Macon through the counties of Wilcox, Pulaski and Houston.

"Acting on your excellent suggestion, and in order to cooperate with your plans, we will offer a large prize as at first planned as a contribution to your general fund for that purpose.

"You may put Fitzgerald down for a thousand-dollar prize, to be offered as above stated in The Constitution's great state good roads undertaking.

"The officers of the Fitzgerald Automobile Association have been authorized to take up the matter of contests, and they will merge the two propositions.

HON. JESSE E. MERCER, of Fitzgerald.

"The county commissioners and city council are cooperating in the work of preparation for the automobile races planned for this place the 17th, 18th and 19th of June.

"You will not find any more hearty cooperation with your proposed state automobile contest anywhere than we can now vouch safe for Fitzgerald.

"J. E. MERCER,
"Editor Fitzgerald Enterprise."

MRS. TAFT SUFFERS FROM BREAKDOWN

President's Wife Taken Ill on Yacht Sylph.

She Was Hurried Back to the White House—Doctors Say It Is a Nervous Attack, and That She Needs a Complete Rest.

Washington, May 17.—Mrs. Taft, suffering from a slight breakdown, was taken ill today while on her way from this city to Mount Vernon on the yacht Sylph with a party of friends, and was hurried back to the white house. It was said at the white house tonight that there is no cause for alarm, and that Mrs. Taft probably will be all right again in a few days. She was unable to be present tonight at an official dinner at the white house.

President Taft tonight himself prepared the following statement in regard to Mrs. Taft's condition:

"Mrs. Taft is suffering from a slight nervous attack. She attended the Eye and Ear and Throat university this morning, where Charlie Taft underwent a slight operation on his throat. She was with him for several hours. She then started with the president and a small party of friends on the Sylph for Mount Vernon. The excitement, heat and exertion were too much for Mrs. Taft's nerves, and the party was obliged to turn back before reaching Alexandria. Mrs. Taft was quickly carried to the white house. The doctors say that after a few days of complete rest, Mrs. Taft may be able to resume her social duties. Dr. Delaney is in attendance. Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Taft's sister, acted as hostess at the official dinner at the white house tonight."

Mrs. Taft's illness probably will not interfere with the president's trip to Petersburg, Va., and Charlotte, N. C., on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, but Mrs. Taft will not be able to accompany him. She had already decided after visiting the hospital this morning to abandon the trip, as she felt that she should remain here with her son.

The operation performed on Charlie was not of a serious nature, and he will be taken tomorrow to the white house.

HULSEY ANSWERS CALL OF DEATH

Veteran and Former Ordinary Passes Away.

For Several Months Judge William Hulsey Had Been in Failing Health, and He Was Recently Taken to Hospital for Skilled Treatment.

After an illness of several weeks, Judge William H. Hulsey, one of the most prominent citizens of Atlanta and a colonel of the Forty-second Georgia regiment, Confederate States army, during the war, died yesterday afternoon at 4:10 o'clock at St. Joseph's infirmary.

JUDGE W. H. HULSEY, Former Ordinary and Veteran, Who Died Yesterday.

For the past few months Judge Hulsey's health had been poor, and recently he was taken to the hospital for skilled treatment. The members of his family and intimate friends were aware of his critical condition, so that death was not unexpected.

Funeral at Residence.

Soon after his death the body of Judge Hulsey was removed to his late residence at 74 Forrest avenue. The funeral services will be conducted at the latter place this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. W. F. Glenn will officiate, and the interment will occur in Oakland cemetery.

Judge Hulsey's life was spent in the service to his state and native city, Atlanta. He was 72 years of age. At the first cry for volunteers for the confederate cause, Judge Hulsey responded, and in 1861, at Camp McDonald, he was elected major of the Forty-second Georgia regiment. Later, he was promoted to the position of lieutenant colonel of his regiment, which he held with distinction until the surrender under General Johnston at Greensboro.

Rebuilding of Atlanta.

After the war, Judge Hulsey came back to Atlanta, and, with other self-sacrificing men, helped to make the city again. Having prepared himself for the practice of law, he was elected solicitor general of this circuit, and served in that capacity for several terms. He was then elected mayor, and later served in the legislature. For several terms he served as ordinary of Fulton county, retiring from that office December 31, 1899. He practiced law for a while after that, and then retired into privacy and the quietude of his home, though his interest in public affairs never dulled.

Judge Hulsey is survived by four sons, E. B., F. W., W. E. and L. J. Hulsey; two daughters, Miss Eula Hulsey and Mrs. Andrew Collier, and by the following sisters: Mrs. Rebecca Sanders, Mrs. W. H. Lofton, Mrs. T. J. Hooks and Mrs. Eugenia Flake.

He was a member of Atlanta camp of veterans. The following gentlemen, all confederate veterans, will act as pallbearers: General A. J. West, Colonel L. P. Thomas, Captain A. J. Thomas, Professor Otto Spahr, Anthony Murphy, John L. Tye, Judge George Hillyer, Judge W. T. Newman and Dr. W. M. Durham.

ALABAMA WINS OVER RAILROADS

Rate Law Won't Go to U. S. Supreme Court.

High Tribunal Denies Writs of Certiorari to Roads, and, Therefore, the Decision of the United States Court of Appeals Stands.

Washington, May 17.—The supreme court of the United States today denied the applications for writs of certiorari in the injunction cases between the Alabama railroad commission and the various railroads of that state involving the constitutionality of the Alabama railroad rate law.

The effect of the decision is against the bringing of the cases to this court, as that was the purpose of the petition, and was, therefore adverse, to the railroads, which sought to have the supreme court review a decision of the United States court of appeals for the fifth circuit which refused to affirm a judgment of the circuit court for the southern district of Alabama, holding the law to be confiscatory.

Trial of New Rates.

Montgomery, Ala., May 17.—(Special.)—The effect of the refusal of the supreme court of the United States to assume jurisdiction of the Alabama rate cases, as noted in press dispatches, will be to put the rates and regulations of the last session of the legislature into effect with the arrival of the mandate of the circuit court of appeals here. However, the rail lines will ask the circuit court for a stay of thirty days while the new tariffs are being framed up.

The roads will be forced now to give the rates a test. They claim this can be done in six to ten weeks while the state insists that much more time should be given.

In the absence of both Governor Comer and Attorney General Garber the further progress of the state's case is left in doubt.

SOUTH NEEDS TARIFF, SAYS SENATOR DEPEW

He Indorses Hancock's Statement That Tariff Is a Local Issue.

Washington, May 17.—Republican though he is, Senator Depew, of New York, today, in a speech in the senate, indorsed General Hancock's declaration that the tariff was a local issue.

Mr. Depew advocated a duty on petroleum, saying that the majority of the product in this country is produced by independent operators. He declared that if the protection on cotton were removed the manufacturers of the Carolinas and Georgia would be wiped out, and that as regards iron, the same would be true of Alabama, Tennessee and West Virginia.

As to the income tax, he said that it would be the most direct possible attack upon the protective policy.

Admiral Swinburne Retires.

San Francisco, May 17.—Rear Admiral W. T. Swinburne, commanding the Pacific fleet, hauled down his flag on the cruiser West Virginia today, having reached the age of retirement, and Rear Admiral Uriel Sebree, commander of the second division of the fleet took command of the whole, raising his flag on the cruiser Tennessee, which will hereafter be the flagship.

LIKE GIVING LAMB TO CARE OF WOLF

To All Labor Unions to Control Trade Training.

So Says Report on Industrial Education Submitted to the Manufacturers' Convention. Flings Made at Gompers. Report Causes Clash.

New York, May 17.—An attack on "the methods of organized labor," broke the otherwise calm routine of the first day's session of the National Association of Manufacturers, which convened at the Waldorf-Astoria.

This arraignment of certain phases of labor unions, including a fling at Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was embodied in a report of the committee on industrial education, of which Anthony Ittner, of St. Louis, is chairman.

After considerable discussion, the report was referred to a special committee, after the convention had gone on record as indorsing not an attack on organized labor, per se, but "the methods of labor."

The attitude of the delegates was made clear when the motion to refer the report to a special committee was made. Then Mr. Ittner arose and offered a suggestion, "that this committee to which the report is to be referred, have the power to emasculate anything in the report that might appear to the members as improper as an unfair attack upon labor."

Damnable Methods.

He added that "we do not fight the labor organizations by themselves; we consider them beneficial, but we fight the methods of organized labor—and some of them are damnable." His statements were followed by applause, and the motion was adopted.

Before the report was made it became known that Frederick W. Senyer, of Milwaukee, a member of the committee, had refused to sign it, on the ground that it contained unwarranted attacks on labor, and, further, in his opinion, the personal views of the chairman of the committee to the exclusion of other members. This controversy resulted in a decision to read the long document with a view to ascertaining its tone. Its reference to the special committee followed.

Bitter References to Gompers.

That reference to Samuel Gompers to which Mr. Senyer particularly objected, read as follows:

"To put organized labor in charge of a movement in the interest of industrial education and trade training would be like putting the lamb in the care of the wolf, or the chicken in the care of the hawk. Witness the efforts of Mr. Gompers and his lieutenants to secure class legislation in congress, their attacks on the power of the courts to issue injunctions, and their proposed amendments to the anti-trust laws.

"We see the president of the American Federation of Labor defying the highest court in the land, and that, too, while he is under a jail sentence. Who is there amongst us that would as-

RAZORS FLASH IN THE SENATE

Attack Made on the Increased Rates on Razors — Alleged That Enormous Profits Are Made by Importing Razors From Germany.

Washington, May 17.—A comprehensive discussion of the income tax by Senator Sutherland, of Utah, and an extended speech by Senator Depew in support of the pending tariff bill, consumed most of the session of the senate today. Mr. Sutherland argued against the constitutionality of a federal income tax law, and declared that such a tax should be left as a means of revenue for the states.

Before adjournment a couple of hours were devoted to a discussion of the cutlery schedule of the tariff bill, and at 5:35 o'clock the senate adjourned.

Razors were again used in a hostile attack upon the rates of the Aldrich bill. The committee on finance had increased the rates on razors in common use from about 55 to 100 per cent ad valorem, and as soon as the senate took up the cutlery schedule today, amendments offered by Mr. Simmons Saturday, cuttings these rates down, were rejected.

Big Profit on Imported Razors.

Senator Stone then offered amendments reducing the duties on razors to the rates of the Dingley bill.

Senator Smoot, in opposing these amendments, said if the duty were 200 per cent it would not increase the price to the consumer. He held up before the senate a razor which he said cost to import 44 cents, and which was sold for $3.

"Have those razors which you have there been sold for $3 each?" inquired Mr. Stone.

"There is no question that the dealer will sell them for that price," replied Mr. Smoot.

"Not after the senator's statement here," said Mr. Bailey laughing.

"I hope that is correct," replied Mr. Smoot, "because the profit they obtain is enormous."

Mr. Smoot exhibited another razor case, supposed to contain a keen-edged blade. It was from Germany, and sold at retail in this country at $2.50, while it cost to import $4.79 a dozen.

Mr. Aldrich said the most striking thing to him about the razor industry was that a large part of the razors imported cost to import wholesale 10 cents each or $1.20 a dozen.

"Is there anyone here who ever saw a razor costing anything like 10 cents?" inquired Mr. Aldrich.

Bacon Refers to Negroes and Razors.

"A 25-cent razor is the kind the citizens of the south of the political faith of the senator from Rhode Island most commonly use," said Mr. Bacon, at which information Mr. Aldrich expressed surprise.

Mr. Bailey insisted that a rate of duty of almost 100 per cent on importation of razors was not in conformity with the pledge of the republican platform to levy a protective duty equal-

GEORGE MEREDITH YIELDS TO DEATH

Famous Novelist Ill Only a Few Days.

But Owing to His Advanced Age He Was Unable to Rally—Immediate Cause of Death Is Given as Heart Failure.

London, May 18.—George Meredith, the English novelist, died at 3:35 this morning.

The immediate cause of death was heart failure, following grave symptoms that developed early in the evening. Mr. Meredith's illness began on May 15, and he had steadily declined since that time. So serious was his condition last night that the attending physician remained constantly at his bedside.

Mr. Meredith was out for his daily drive at his Box Hill retreat on Saturday morning in a little donkey chaise. He seemed then to be in his usual health. A keen east wind was blowing, and it appears to have given him a chill. He returned home in a state of collapse with serious attacks of pain in the intestinal region. A physician was summoned and the novelist revived somewhat, but was unable to take nourishment. His daughter, Mrs. Sturgis, remained in constant attendance, and his son was summoned on Sunday.

The king's physician, Sis Thomas Barlow, was called into consultation, and it was hoped that in spite of his great age, the patient would rally. This hope was not maintained for any length of time, as the internal inflammation developed rapidly. Mr. Meredith had been showing signs of weakness during the past week, having had periods of drowsiness, followed by marked signs of debility, although he was able to take his accustomed daily drives.

BROKE JAW YAWNING OVER TAFT AND GOLF

New York, May 17.—Albert Hoppert, 70 years old, had become so disgusted with the long articles in the newspapers concerning President Taft's golf playing, that when he came upon another of these narratives yesterday in his home at Fairground, L. I., he yawned so widely and so long that he dislocated his jaw. It required a journey to a hospital and the services of two physicians to relieve him.

PRISONER'S NAME ON BLOODY SHIRT

Butler, Ga., May 17.—(Special.) Charles Smith, charged in warrant with intent to murder C. B. Wiggins on Saturday night, May 8, was arraigned this morning before Justice J. T. Adams for perliminary hearing, waived commitment and a bond to the amount of $15,000 was assessed. C. R. McCrary, of Columbus, appeared as attorney for the defendant. Messrs. Steed and Awtrey announced ready for the state.

After due consideration, Judge Adams remanded Smith to jail, assessing a bond to the amount stated.

One of the most important new developments in this highly sensational case today is the finding of the bloody shirt worn by Smith when he made his murderous assault upon Wiggins. Smith's name was very plainly and indelibly written on the shirt, and it is alleged that the shirt was made by Mrs. Wiggins and sent him recently, with other garments made for him by her.

COUNCIL SETTLES BRICK QUESTION

The general council settled the brick question yesterday afternoon by adopting a minority report from the street committee, which allows the contractor for laying sidewalk pavement to use any brick that comes up to the specifications and meets the approval and inspection of the city engineer.

This means that the shale brick is knocked out and that the property owners will not have a choice of brick.

There was a majority report from the street committee which called for the using by the contractor of shale brick which had been adopted at a former meeting of council. There was a very spirited debate over the matter and the vote was as follows:

For the minority report: Curtis Pittman, Pomeroy, Hancock, Johnson, Hilburn, Dodd, Boynton, Harrison, Chosewood, Smith, Winn, Walraven, Johnston, Amorous, Cofield, Foster—17.

The report from the street committee which was adopted was as follows:

"Resolved, by the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta, That whereas the Southern Tile and Stone Company has been awarded the contract for laying the brick sidewalks for the city of Atlanta for the year 1909, and whereas, said Southern Tile and Stone Company made its bid on specifications furnished by the city engineer, said specifications calling for 'Chattahoochee river brick or its equal,' and whereas the Southern Tile and Stone Company have given bond to the city of Atlanta to carry out this contract, and whereas there has already been over three miles of granite curbing set and no brick sidewalks have been laid up to this day;

"Therefore be it resolved, That the said Southern Tile and Stone Company be authorized and instructed to proceed at once with the laying of such brick sidewalks as have been passed up by the city council and are now ready to begin work on, and any other brick sidewalks that may subsequently be passed up under this year's administration, the character and quality of brick to be used shall be as specified in the original specifications and to meet the approval and inspection of the city engineer."

General Manager Scott, of the Georgia, Arrives in Atlanta, and Gives Out Statement Showing the Railroad's Side of the Case.

Complying with instructions issued Saturday by E. A. Ball, second vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the members of that organization on the Georgia railroad and on the joint terminal trackage last night at 9 o'clock severed their connection with those two employing corporations.

But during hours of the night the strike produced no appreciable or apparent change in the situation. The engines on the joint terminals trackage and the trains on the Georgia moved along as has been their wont since the rails were laid.

It was a brotherhood engineer who handled the locomotives, but that engineer had on his machine a fireman who was not a B. L. F. and E. At no time was there any delay or tie-up of the locomotives in the yards, neither was there any hesitancy or halt in moving the trains on the main line. The passenger trains leaving Atlanta and Augusta about the midnight hour were moving along according to the usual schedule when last reports were recorded at the train dispatchers' offices at both depots. No break in the freight train movements had been reported up to an early hour this morning.

Conditions May Change.

But the conditions obtaining may be changed at any minute and a tie-up is among the possibilities.

During the day Vice President Ball was in almost constant consultation with Brotherhood men and late at night expressed himself as completely satisfied with the conditions and situation. Among Vice President Ball's visitors at his apartments in the Kimball was F. E. Burgess, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who came to Atlanta to lend his counsel and assistance in any way it may be needed. A. P. Kelly, of Chicago, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, will reach Atlanta this morning and will join Vice President Ball in the conduct and management of the struggle now on.

Colonel Thomas K. Scott, general manager of the Georgia railroad, reached Atlanta last night to take a survey of the situation and passed on to Montgomery this morning. During his stay in the city General Manager Scott gave out a card for publication. That card reads:

Augusta, Ga., May 17, 1909.

To the Public: The Atlanta, Macon and Augusta papers of yesterday morning contained a brief statement over my signature of the announcement received by me late on Saturday night that the firemen employed by the Georgia railroad who are members of the Firemen's Brotherhood, of which Mr. E. A. Ball, of Toronto, Canada, is vice president, would leave the service of the Georgia railroad at 9 o'clock tonight. At that late hour it was impossible to supplement this statement with a suitable relation of the conferences which had occurred between the committee of firemen, Mr. E. A. Ball, vice president, of Toronto, Canada, and myself.

It seems proper to publish such a supplemental statement now, in order that you may clearly understand the movement of the firemen, under the direction of Vice President Ball, whom they have made their spokesman.

Vice President Ball came to the south, presumably from Toronto, Canada, where he lives, some weeks ago, and about the same time the firemen of the Georgia railroad formulated and submitted to the officials of the Georgia railroad an agreement to take the place of the existing agreement, and called on me to discuss it with them.

What Agreement Will Do.

At this interview I pointed out to them that the following clauses of their proposed agreement presented insurmountable difficulties:

"All firemen who are hired will be placed in freight or yard service, and the oldest white firemen will stand first for passenger engines or runs.

"Passenger, through, local freight and yard engines, will not be blocked by non-promotable men," because the adoption of such stipulations would utterly and completely destroy the reasonable rights of seniority in runs which had been acquired by negro firemen by long service, and who had been found worthy of promotion simply as firemen by reason of their efficiency and faithfulness.

At an interview with Vice President Ball, subsequently, he undertook to instruct me, whose life has been spent in the south, among the southern people, with every opportunity to observe their bearing and their temper toward the negro engaged in industrial and agricultural pursuits, both during slavery and since, that the sentiment of the southern people was opposed to the practice of the Georgia railroad, as herein described, of allowing negro firemen to acquire the character of seniority described, the benefits of which were confined strictly to their employment as firemen. I denied his proposition, believing that a Canadian who only had a brief opportunity of studying conditions in Georgia could not have any sound basis for such an allegation as Mr. Ball made. He stated, further, that he understood that the laws of Georgia discriminated against the negro in industrial pursuits, and that the policy of the Georgia railroad, as described herein and fully understood by him, was contrary to the laws of Georgia, or at least to their spirit, alluding, of course, to the constitutional amendment adopted last fall placing certain limitations upon the exercise of the suffrage.

Did Not Ask Increased Pay.

The firemen and their agent and representative, Vice President Ball, disclaimed any desire to ask for an increase of wages. Some minor grievances, belonging quite far back in the past and of more fancied than real importance, and of no practical significance, were stated by the firemen and virtually dropped by them. Some other matters were promised immediate attention; for instance, placing drinking water tanks on tenders and in summertime providing ice to be placed therein.

But the gravamen of their and Mr. Ball's efforts was the destruction of the colored firemen's rights of seniority, as described, and the appeal to feeling and prejudice in alleging the Georgia railroad's practice made the negro firemen superior to the white. It was quite useless to point out to them that the negro fireman reached the limit of his ambition, or the limit of his possible promotion, when, by good conduct and efficient and faithful service, he attained the position of fireman on the engine of a passenger train. It was useless to point out that no white man was made subordinate to a negro on the Georgia railroad, as exemplified by the fact that any senior white fireman could, upon application, be examined for promotion to the position of engineer, and if, upon examination, found competent to fill that position, be appointed engineer over all the colored firemen in the service of the road, who had been in the service of the road much longer than himself. This fact in itself completely demolishes the theory indulged in by Mr. Ball, of Canada, in his conferences with me, who proclaims himself to be so thoroughly acquainted with the industrial conditions affecting the races in Georgia as to confuse the constitutional amendment adopted last fall limiting the suffrage with an antagonism between the races in the ordinary pursuits of life that there is any deprivation of a white man's rights or any subjection of those rights to those of negro firemen on the Georgia railroad. It was useless to point out that a negro cannot entertain the ambition to be an engineer. It was useless to point out that no management of the Georgia railroad for an instant has ever (or ever will) contemplated appointing negroes as engineers. It was equally useless to point out that every industrious, intelligent, worthy white fireman has for his ambition the attainment of the position of engineer, and that no white fireman who could stand the necessary examination for appointment as engineer has ever been known to be permanently content with the position of fireman, even on the engine of a passenger train.

As time goes on you will, I believe, be convinced that the effort of Mr. Ball and of a few misguided young citizens of Georgia, who are serving as firemen on the Georgia railroad, will be to raise an issue as to the employment of negroes on railroads at all. I have shown that objection to their having seniority rights simply as firemen is clearly a subterfuge. The ultimate purpose, as I well know from facts in my possession, is to eventually drive the negro out of employment on railroads altogether.

Here Are the Points.

The points I endeavor to put clearly before the public in the foregoing are these:

1. The limit of the negro's career on the Georgia railroad is that of fireman. He can, under no conceivable circumstances, come in competition with a white man for the position of engineer or "block" a white man's promotion to that position.

2. The objective of the white fireman is the position of engineer. It is solely and simply for the purpose of ultimately attaining that position that he endures the hard work of a fireman. To the realization of this aspiration no arrangement or practice of the Georgia as to its negro firemen does now or ever has or ever will oppose the slightest obstacle. A negro fireman's seniority neither brings him any nearer the position of engineer, nor puts the white fireman any further away from it. His (the negro's) seniority, coupled with long and faithful service, gives him promotion in the form of a better run, as fireman. This is the only reward he can have for long and faithful service. It is but justice and encouragement to him, and is not either injustice or discouragement to the white fireman.

3. It is so clear that the white firemen of the Georgia railroad have no grievance in this matter and that their real ambition—which is to become engineers—is not obstructed in the slightest degree by the practice, of which they complain, that the conclusion is irresistible that they are being used by a party unacquainted with and alien to our industrial situation, to start an agitation to drive the negro altogether out of railroad service.

Purely Political Motive.

4. That Mr. Ball of Canada's exposition of the suffrage amendment to the state constitution is erroneous—the scope of that amendment being purely political and not intended to disturb industrial relations of the whites and the negroes.

I leave you to judge whether or not the movement to stir up industrial race strife for which I at least hold Mr. Ball, of Canada, to be chiefly responsible, if successful, will not mean an end of industrial freedom for the negro, which has ever been the south's proud and rightful boast in other pursuits.

T. A. Campbell has been dismissed because when he reached Augusta from Atlanta on train 28, Saturday, he refused to tell Superintendent Brand whether or not, as rumored, he intended to strike today—Monday—although he as chairman of the grievance committee had signed the notice to me that the firemen would strike at 9 p. m. tonight, as shown in the copy of the notice as published by me in the newspapers of May 16, which notice was on the way to my residence under special delivery stamp and which reached me at 11:10 p. m., seventy-fifth meridian, May 15. Other firemen who refused to declare their position have also been dismissed, but none has been replaced by a negro fireman, but all have been replaced by competent white men, worthy citizens of Georgia.

Respectfully,
THOS. K. SCOTT,
General Manager.

Augusta, Ga., May 17, 1909.

Fifty Strike in Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., May 17.—About fifty white firemen on the Georgia railroad struck tonight against the rules of the road giving seniority places to negro firemen. The thirty negro firemen are at their places. White firemen have been employed, and are in the places of the white strikers. The officials say that there is not the slightest embarrassment in any way whatever.

RAILWAY TELEGRAPHERS PASS VERY BUSY DAY

The Order of Railway Telegraphers, now working the second week in the international convention of 1909, disposed of an immense amount of work yesterday in executive session.

Working committees to which had been sent papers during the first days of the 1909 convention showed an activity, and during the morning several reports of interest to members of the Order of Railway Telegraphers and to the delegates to the 1909 convention were presented.

The nominations of officers to succeed those now in position was placed before the convention in executive session, but nothing was done, the indications being that the nominations will be brought up some time today or tomorrow.

The officers of the Ladies' International Auxiliary Association were installed during the morning, Mrs. E. B. Smith, of Atlanta, being international president and Mrs. G. W. Malone, of Chicago, international secretary.

Important to all Women Readers of this Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they will cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But thousands of irritable, nervous, tired and broken-down women have restored their health and strength by the use of Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder remedy.

Swamp-Root brings new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of such troubles.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy, will do for them. Many Students Taking Advantage of Low Summer Rates.

The splendid success of Miss May Lillie Causey, Austell, Ga., adds another name to the hundreds of record-breaking graduates of Bagwell Business College who have completed their courses and secured positions in one-half the time required for other systems.

These records published from time to time are by no means exceptions. Bagwell Business College will take pleasure in furnishing to prospective students of shorthand the names and addresses of hundreds of Chartier stenographers holding the best positions in Atlanta and other cities.

The average student will acquire the same proficiency in TWO to FOUR months with the Chartier that requires SIX to EIGHT months with an old system.

WHAT THE GREAT EASTMAN COLLEGE SAYS ABOUT CHARTIER.

The following is a statement from C. C. Gaines, president of the great Eastman school, at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., the oldest and perhaps the largest Business College in America:

"I DESIRE TO SAY EMPHATICALLY THAT THERE IS NOT A BETTER SYSTEM OF SHORTHAND IN USE TODAY THAN THE CHARTIER SYSTEM. WHILE SOME SCHOOLS INDICATE THAT THE PITMAN SYSTEM IS BETTER FOR REPORTING, I BEG TO SAY THAT WE ARE TEACHING THE PITMAN SYSTEM AND HAVE TAUGHT IT FOR NEARLY TWENTY YEARS; AND I KNOW PERSONALLY THAT WE CAN MAKE REPORTERS IN THE CHARTIER FULLY AS WELL AS WE CAN IN THE PITMAN."

CHRONIC DISEASES

REQUIRE SPECIAL EXPERIENCE

YOUR family doctor knows something about all diseases, but it is impossible for him to know everything about every disease.

That is why the family doctor should—and often does—refer chronic cases to a specialist. The specialist studies and treats a limited class of diseases. He learns more about that class and cures many cases that have been pronounced incurable.

Dr. Hathaway & Co., of Atlanta, have been known for 20 years as the leading specialists of the South. Their practice is limited to the treatment of chronic diseases peculiar to men and women. Thousands can testify to their ability and skill and kindly treatment.

VALUABLE BOOKS---FREE

Dr. Hathaway & Co. have written two interesting books in language which can be understood by the people. One treats of "Diseases Peculiar to Men," the other of "Diseases of Women." They embody much of the experience of these well known specialists, acquired in their long experience of over 20 years, and contain information which every man and woman should know.

NO CHARGE FOR DIAGNOSIS.

GET SEVEN YEARS YOUNGER IN "A TRIP TO CHINATOWN"

If you had the good fortune to see the original Bijou Company when they opened in Atlanta at the Grand seven years ago in "A Trip to Chinatown," and you cherish a wish akin to that which led Ponce de Leon to Florida, you have the opportunity to turn back those seven years for an evening by going to the Lyric this week to see the Bijou Company again presenting Hoyt's masterpiece.

To be sure, there are now on the stage only three of the company which made the greatest hit in Atlanta's theatrical history, but those who are absent are ably represented, the lines of the play are just as bright as ever, and there is a new line of musical specialties which the audience seemed to find just to its liking. Of course, those who saw the original company will not get just what they got when Little Chip, Mary Marble, John Dunne, Otis Harlan, Tony Hart, Agnes Rose Lane, and all the rest made up the cast, but it must be remembered that the passing of seven years has its effect on both sides the footlights, and that it is consequently impossible to make any comparison that is fair to the present company.

Marie Fanchonetti, Dan Marble and Estelle Rogers, now elevated from the chorus to a speaking part, are the three members of the original company. However, almost as old a friend was found in Robert Harty, who took Otis Harlan's place in the company, and has been seen in Atlanta for a number of years. Harty is really the life of the show, and is admirably fitted to the part of Welland Strong, the hefty grass widower, who imagines that he has one foot in the grave. His songs, especially those in which he was aided by Claud Lightnar, Herbert Denton and Frank McGirr, were well received. Marie Fanchionetti did some clever dancing, as well as good singing, and Dan Marble made a good character part of Slavin Payne, the eccentric old servant. The other parts are well handled. As for the play, it is too well known to need any criticism. It will be remembered that, despite its name, no trip to Chinatown is taken, there is no view of the mysterious Frisco Oriental quarter, no Chink appears on the stage, and in the present production there is not even a Chinese song.

LAUREN FOREMAN.

At the Bijou.

Thelma, booked as "The Queen of Handcuff Manipulators and Jail Breakers," is the star feature of the bill at the Bijou this week. Thelma does some wonderful stunts. One of them is her escape from a bag in which she has been placed with a small boy. She gets out of the bag, and leaves the boy inside. The boy professes ignorance of her manner of escape, but whether he is an assistant or not is a question for the audience to solve.

Other acts on the bill include Krama brothers, in an acrobatic act; Boulden and Quinn, in a musical comedy stunt, and Ed and May Woodward, in a rural comedy sketch. Boulden and Quinn are probably the best of the three. Especially pleasing to the audience and productive of applause, which, however, failed to bring an encore, was their work in playing on glasses filled with water.

The moving pictures were first-class.

At the Casino.

There was a slim audience, little enthusiasm and a rather disappointing run of acts at the Casino last night.

Of all the acts presented, the one by the Sterling children proved the redeeming feature. Their work was very good, and pleased the majority of the audience. A Swiss bell-ringing and xylophone act was another fair act.

The other acts, however, were below the average. The patrons of the Casino do not object to paying fair prices for good shows, but poor vaudeville will not prove a paying venture in Atlanta.

It is believed, however, that this week at the Casino is one of "those accidents which happen in the best regulated families," and that next week will see a much more attractive bill.

At White City.

The swimming pool at White City park is one of the most attractive features of this beautiful resort. It is the largest private pool in the city, and is filled every afternoon with bathers. The water flows constantly. It is spring water, and all rain water is carried around the pool by surface drains. Experienced swimmers are in constant attendance, so that as far as possible all damage from drowning is removed, even to the hundreds of youngsters who flock to the pool.

Mr. Bailey declared that the protectionists warned the country against the products of free trade England "But, now," he said, "we are warned against danger to our country from protective Germany."

Just before the senate adjourned, Mr. Smoot, in response to a question by Mr. Stone, moved over to the democratic side of the chamber, at the same time taking a razor from his pocket and deliberately opening it. He walked up to Senator Stone and then whirled the razor in his hand as he explained how the name of the foreign manufacturer was obliterated from the blade.

Senator Carter suggested that the senator from Missouri had been intimidated by the razor in the hands of the senator from Utah, and the senator from Utah, returning to his seat, carefully replaced the razor in its case.

35,000 IRON EMPLOYEES TO GET 10 PER CENT RAISE

Evidence That Prosperity Has Returned to the United States.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 17.—The announcement is made here tonight that 35,000 employees of iron and steel companies, having headquarters here and in this vicinity, will receive an advance in wages averaging 10 per cent the 1st of June or the 1st of July. Some of the manufacturers have already posted notices of the increase, and others, it is said, will do so in a few days. The United States Steel Corporation has made no announcement of an increase in wages, but it is said the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, the Republic Iron and Steel Company, and other independent companies will restore the wages paid prior to the 1st of last April, when a general cut was made.

The president made it clear that mutual trust, sincerity and regard for justice was the only sure ground of continued relations between the two countries. Mr. Gonzales was introduced to the president by Secretary Knox.

PRESBYTERIANS MEET THURSDAY

General Assembly to Convene in Savannah.

High Court of the Presbyterian Church in the South Will Bring Together an Unusually Distinguished Body of Men.

Savannah, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States will be held in the First Presbyterian church in this city from May 20 to May 29, inclusive. In connection with this meeting will be held the quadracentennial celebration of the birth of John Calvin, the founder of the Presbyterian church. The joint assemblies will bring to Savannah something like three hundred delegates. They will come not alone from many points in the United States, but from foreign countries.

The people of Savannah, irrespective of their religious beliefs, have made excellent preparations for the entertainment of the visitors during their stay in Savannah. Hundreds of homes will be opened to receive the delegates, and, as the railroads have made cheap rates for the occasion, it is believed that the attendance will be larger than that upon any church convention held here for several years.

High Court of the Church.

The general assembly is the highest court in the Presbyterian church, and brings together something like 250 or 300 of the ablest ministers and most prominent laymen in the south as its delegates. In addition to the delegates, there are usually a large number who attend the assembly as visitors. This year, however, it is expected that will be a larger attendance than usual, because of the observance of the birth of the great Protestant leader. Much of the time of the convention will be taken up with the discussion of the subject of missions and the raising of a million-dollar mission fund during the coming year. The unofficial congress of Presbyterian laymen recently held at Birmingham, Ala., which made this work a feature of their meeting, has greatly stimulated the efforts of the Presbyterians along this line. The assembly will formulate plans for rushing this work to completion, and will appoint committees to see that the sum is raised.

The assembly will convene at 11 a. m., May 20, with Rev. W. W. Moore, D.D., of Richmond, Va., presiding as moderator. He will deliver the opening sermon at that hour. At 9 o'clock that night there will be an address by Dr. Charles Merle d'Aubigne, of Neuilly-sur-Seine, France, his subject being "Calvin, the Man and His Times."

The afternoons will be devoted largely to meetings of committees, and the mornings and evenings to the general work of the assembly.

Many Notable Addresses.

Those chosen to make addresses in connection with the Calvin celebration in addition to the visiting Frenchmen and the subjects they will have are as follows:

Friday, May 21, at noon—Dr. R. C. Reed, Columbia, S. C., "Calvin's Contribution to the Reformation."

Friday, May 21, 9 p. m.—Dr. Henry Collins Milton, Trenton, N. J., "Calvin, the Theologian."

Tuesday, May 25, 9 p. m.—Dr. George H. Denny, Washington and Lee University, "Calvin's Contribution to Educational Progress."

Wednesday, May 26, at noon—Hon. Frank T. Glasgow, of Lexington, Va., "Calvin's Influence Upon the Political Influence of the World."

Wednesday, May 26, 9 p. m.—Dr. S. A. King, Austin, Texas, "How Far Has the Original Calvinism Been Modified by Time?"

Thursday, May 27, at noon—Dr. Benjamin B. Warfield, Princeton, N. J., "Present-Day Attitude Toward Calvinism; Its Causes and Significance."

Thursday, May 27, 9 p. m.—Dr. A. M. Fraser, Staunton, Va., "How May the Principle of Calvinism Be Rendered Most Effective Under Modern Conditions."

Dr. Orr, an eminent Scotch theologian, was the first of the foreign delegates to arrive in this country. He went to Canada early in April, and, after spending some time there, went to New York, from where he came to Savannah. It was expected that Dr. Abram Kuyper, of Holland, was to be here to speak on "Calvin, the Theologian," but he was unable to come, and Dr. Minton was chosen in his stead.

Preparations Completed.

A local committee is making all preparations for the meeting of the assembly, and for the entertainment of the visitors. There will be short excursions to the resorts around Savannah and steamboat trips around the harbor will be provided. Rev. W. Moore Scott, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is the chairman of the general committee. Some of the prominent visitors other than those mentioned who are expected to be here during the meeting of the assembly are Rev. S. H. Chester, D.D., Nashville, Tenn.; Rev. Henry Sweets, D.D., Louisville, Ky.; Rev. J. G. Snedecor, D.D., Tuscaloosa, Ala.; R. E. Magill, Richmond, Va.; Rev. A. L. Phillips, Richmond, Va.; S. W. Somerville, Fredericksburg, Va.; Rev. John Fox, of the American Bible Society, New York; Rev. W. A. Alexander, Clarksville, Tenn., and others.

The officials of the assembly are: Retiring moderator, Rev. W. W. Moore, D.D., Richmond, Va.; stated clerk, Rev. W. A. Alexander, Clarksville, Tenn.; permanent clerk, Rev. Thomas H. Law, D.D., Spartanburg, S. C.

An interesting incident in connection with the meeting of the assembly will be the presentation to the moderator at the first service of a historic gavel made of wood from St. Peter's cathedral of Geneva, with which Calvin was closely associated. The gavel is made from the part of a beam from the belfry of the church. It represents four Ionic columns, with a profile likeness of Calvin on one side and the famous Calvin seal (the extended hand and heart) on another. On still another side is a bronze plate suitably inscribed. The gavel is hand-carved. The wood left from the beam after the gavel was cut out has been made into thin strips and attached to pieces of American wood. Upon these have been printed pictures of Calvin and St. Peter's cathedral. These will be presented to the delegates as souvenirs.

SUMMER CAMPS AT UNIVERSITY FOR INSTRUCTION IN FORESTRY

Athens, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The new catalog of the University of Georgia, which is just from the press, contains an interesting announcement in regard to the instruction in forestry at that institution. The course has been strengthened by the introduction of two summer terms, and these summer terms are to be spent in camp in the woods. The introduction of these camps makes a somewhat novel departure in university instruction. Hereafter the students will take to the woods in the latter part of June and remain in camp for two months. They will exchange the lecture room for the woods, the sawmill and the lumber yard.

This summer the camp will be in the north Georgia mountains, in Fannin county. A tract of 2,000 acres has been placed at the disposal of the university by its owner, and the camp will be on this tract. The site selected is a knoll above a clear mountain stream, with mountains rising in the immediate vicinity to elevations of 3,000 feet. The camp itself is at an elevation of 2,100 feet. The surroundings are both beautiful and healthful.

The facilities for studying forest botany are excellent. Besides the ordinary southern trees, several northern species, such as the white pine, extend into the region. More than ninety species of tree are found within a few miles of camp.

Open to Any Student.

The summer forest terms are open to any student in any branch of the university. This will give the students a chance to investigate the subject and to determine their fitness for the profession of forest engineering, without interrupting the studies they are already pursuing.

The camps are also thrown open to any male person 19 years of age, to the limit of the camp's capacity. This will afford an excellent opportunity to teachers in the public schools to study forest botany and gather material for use in connection with their nature study work.

Many Applications.

The applicants for admission include two editors and a clerk, so that others besides teachers are going to avail themselves of the opportunities which the summer forest camps afford.

The objects of the camps are serious. There will be ample time for rest and recreation, but the greater part of the time will be spent in hard study at camp and in hard work in the woods. In addition to the lectures and practice in the woods, each man will be required to do his share of the work incident to camp life. Failure to assist in the camp work or grumbling about petty hardships will be cause for dismissal.

S.S.S. CURES OLD SORES

If an old sore existed simply because the flesh was diseased at that particular spot, it would be an easy matter to apply some remedy directly to the place that would kill the germs; or the diseased flesh might be removed by a surgical operation and a cure effected. But the very fact that old sores resist every form of local or external treatment, and even return after being cut away, shows that back of them is a morbid cause which must be removed before a cure can result. Just as long as the pollution continues in the blood, the ulcer remains an open cesspool for the deposit of impurities which the circulation throws off. S. S. S. cures Old Sores by purifying the blood. It removes every trace of impurity and taint from the circulation, and thus completely does away with the cause. When S S S. has cleansed the blood, the sore begins to heal, and it is not a surface cure, but the healing process begins at the bottom; soon the discharge ceases, the inflammation leaves, and the place fills in with firm, healthy flesh. Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. the system is built up, and those whose health has been impaired by the drain and worry of an old sore will be doubly benefited by its use. PEACHTREE ROAD WILL BE OILED

Contract Let and Work Will Be Done Next Week

Standard Asphalt Road Oil Will Be Put on Mile of Chert Road From Fifteenth Street to Brookwood—An Individual Enterprise.

A contract has been let for oiling a mile of Peachtree road from Fifteenth street, where the bitulithic pavement ends, to Brookwood.

The arrangement was made between a number of prominent citizens whose homes are on this portion of Peachtree road, which is paved with chert, and a representative of the Standard Oil Company.

It will require 10,000 gallons of Standard asphalt road oil to properly prepare this mile of road, and the cost will be between $500 and $600.

Experts state that this will keep the road free from dust for at least six months, through the summer season, and probably much longer.

In communities where oil is commonly used the present plan is to oil the road once a year. This does away with the necessity for watering to lay the dust, and at an expense considerably smaller than the watering costs.

The oil to be used on this portion of Peachtree road is the same that was used on t he Savannah race course which, it is stated, is still in splendid condition after having been on the road more than six months.

The Peachtree road oiling will be done next week, and it is expected it will be followed on other roads in and around Atlanta.

MAN AND WOMAN DIE OF APOPLEXY

T. J. Conaway Drops Dead in Front of Grady Hospital.

T. J. Conaway, 69 years of age, of 394 Whitehall street, a confederate veteran, dropped dead yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in front of the Grady hospital, where he had held a short conversation with C. E. Long, day office man at the hospital. Superintendent of Nurses Miss Annie Bridges and Drs. Lewis, Coates and Adams, who were on the front porch of the building at the time, saw Conaway stagger and fall from the sidewalk into the street. The internes hurried him to the operating room, but he died in a few minutes. The cause of death was apoplexy.

Another death from apoplexy was that of Mrs. H. G. Gryhams, 60 years of age, of 239 West Fair street, who was found dead in bed at 4 o'clock by Mrs. Smith, a next-door neighbor. Mrs. Gryhams had been out in her garden at 11 o'clock, and remarked across the fence to Mrs. Smith that she was tired, and thought she would go into the house. Accordingly, she went through the rear of the residence. Five hours later a visitor to the home failed to gain admittance on repeatedly knocking at the door, and called to Mrs. Smith to know if Mrs. Gryhams was at home. Mrs. Smith went into the house and found Mrs. Gryhams dead.

Both bodies were sent to the undertaking parlors of Harry G. Poole.

Conaway is survived by his wife and seven sons and daughter, W. J. and Charles Conaway and Mrs. J. J. Raiford, Mrs. W. G. Connell, Mrs. Paul Whiting, and Misses Eva and Louise Conaway. Mrs. Gryhams is survived by four daughters and one son.

"TWO" MANY WIVES FOR ONE HUSBAND

Two living wives to one man bobbed up in the police court yesterday afternoon, and because he thought the husband had assumed entirely too much responsibility, Judge Broyles gave him 30 days in each of the cases in the stockade, and bound him over on a charge of bigamy, with bond fixed at $500.

E. J. Sherran, 19 years of age, for a short time an employee of the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills, was the husband for whom the two women were contending and the wives were Mrs. Sherran, No. 1, and Mrs. Sherran, No. 2, formerly Miss Lizzie Buice, 18 years of age. Mrs. Sherran, who resides at 55 Almo avenue, had the first claim on her husband by wedding him three years ago, and Miss Buice thought he was hers because she said he gave to her three weeks ago the name of Mrs. E. J. Livingston.

"He told me his name was Livingston, and that his first wife was dead," stated Miss Buice, "so we married at the court-house three weeks ago." Investigation disclosed the fact that Rev. Almand had married them.

Sherran had little to say, except to deny the charge that he married twice. After sentence had been passed he said, in reference to Miss Buice, "Judge, this woman drugged me and kept me two days and nights at her room."

BAPTISTS HOLD LAST MEETINGS

Louisville Convention Adjourns Monday.

Although Many Delegates Had Returned to Their Homes, a Number of Meetings Were Held Monday in Louisville Churches.

Louisville, Ky., May 17.—Firmly for prohibition, the Southern Baptist Convention adjourned in this city tonight, after a meeting of five days. Almost the final act of the thousands of delegates from every state in the south was the passage of a set of strong resolutions indorsing the south's fight against whisky, prepared by E. E. Folk, of Nashville, Tenn., and offered by him as the report of the temperance committee. There was not a dissenting vote.

An address was made by Clinton N. Howard, prosecuting attorney of Rochester, N. Y., entitled 'A Ride on the Water Wagon," after which funds were collected to aid in the work of temperance.

Appointments were made during the day session to complete the home and foreign mission boards, and the report of the committee on estimates, increasing the apportionments for these boards, was adopted, after its reading by Dr. J. G. Gambrell, of Texas, chairman. The states are assigned the following allotments:

Allotments Assigned.

Arkansas, home missions, $13,000; foreign missions, $15,000.

Kentucky, home missions, $45,000; foreign missions, $40,000.

Louisiana, home missions, $9,000; foreign missions, $10,000.

Maryland, home missions, $9,500; foreign missions, $12,500.

Missouri, home missions, $21,000; foreign misions, $32,000.

South Carolina, home missions, $25,000; foreign missions, $46,000.

Oklahoma, home missions, $3,500; foreign missions, $3,500.

Virginia, home missions, $32,000; foreign missions, $68,000.

Perhaps in addition to the powerful anti-liquor resolutions, the convention has been notable for the following accomplishments: Raising the endowment of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, at Louisville.

Contributing generously to home and foreign missions.

Inducing Joseph N. Shenstone, of Toronto, Canada, to devote his alleged great fortune to religious and laymen missionary work.

Fostering the organization of Southern Baptist Education Society.

Choosing two years ahead its convention city, for, after Baltimore was chosen for 1910, the convention recognized the brave fight of St. Joseph, Mo., and will meet there in 1911.

Report on Temperance.

Following is the report of the committee on temperance, which was read by E. E. Folk, of Nashville, Tenn.:

"There is expended in this country every year for strong drinks something over $2,000,000,000. Among the results of this traffic in intoxicating liquors are the loss of 100,000 lives each year, 95 per cent of the murders in the country, 75 per cent of all crimes, 75 per cent of divorces, and 40 per cent of insanity. With such results, can any one expect the followers of Christ to sit by and see this traffic continuing without offering any protest against that traffic, and doing everything possible to destroy it?

"We are glad to report that six of the fifteen states comprising the territory of this convention have already abolished the traffic entirely from their borders, while all the others have abolished it from a large proportion of their territory. We confidently expect the time to come soon when every vestige of this liquor traffic shall be abolished from every part of every state in the bounds of the convention.

"That traffic and especially its concrete representative, the saloon, has no place in a civilized community, no business in a Christian country. It is an anachronism, a barbarism. From a moral, religious, scientific, economic and political standpoint, the saloon has not one redeeming feature. It is an incubus, a parasite, a nuisance, the center of all vice, the radiating point of all evil influences, the breathing hole of the devil, a monster of injustice, iniquity and impurity.

"The saloon has sinned away its day of grace, if it ever had any, and now the time has come when the saloon must go.

Recommendations Made.

"To the end that the liquor traffic may be abolished, we recommend:

"1. That we cordially commend the effective work of the Anti-Saloon League and other organizations seeking the suppression of the traffic, and give to them our cooperation and support to the extent of our ability.

"2. That we again respectfully, but earnestly, request the proper officials of our national government, not to issue privilege taxes for the sale of liquor where its sale is prohibited by the laws of the state.

"3. That we urge our senators and representatives in congress to pass some further and more effective measure besides the amendment to the penal code bill adopted by the last congress to prevent the shipment of liquor into dry territory.

"4. That a standing committee on temperance be appointed to report at the next session of the convention, and that a report on the subject be made part of the regular order of business of the convention.

"5. That we urge people everywhere not to vote for anyone for any office who is known to be in sympathy with the liquor traffic.

"God hasten the day when the traffic shall be completely abolished from our southland, our country and from all the world.

"(Signed)

"Edgar E. Folk, S. P. rBooks, C., W. Daniel, J. B. Gambrell, L. C. Wolfe, W. T. Amis, W. D. Upshaw, B. G. Lowrey, H. A. Sumrall."

Although the convention had about finished the business up for consideration during its successful meetings of the past few days, there were several gatherings today. The first meeting was held at the First Presbyterian church, when the delegates to the convention from Kentucky assembled for a general discussion and farewell. At the same church there was a conference on Sunbeam and Royal ambassador work at which delegates from all parts of the south were present. The meeting was led by Miss Elizabeth N. Briggs, of North Carolina.

Mrs. W. S. Leake, of Virginia, presided at a conference on Young Women's Auxiliary work during the morning.

Dr. Hale Secured.

President E. Y. Mullins, of the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, announced at the morning session of the regular convention that Dr. P. T. Hale had been secured as a financial agent to assist in raising money to complete the additional endowment of $600,000. He said further that Dr. Hale would give a series of lectures on evangelism at the seminary. The financial agents met today at the Galt House to outline their campaign.

M. H. Wolfe, of Dallas, Texas, a banker, who has given largely of his time and means to the Baptist Laymen's Missionary movement, read a report of the committee on systematic beneficence.

The report urged that church members give regularly of their means every week. Though they have twelve months in which to make their subscriptions, one-third of the receipts of the church are given in April, the last month of the church year.

Many Provisions.

The Rev. William Bruce, who is in charge of the Hope Rescue Mission in this city, told the delegates what that institution has accomplished in the nine years or more of its existence. Nearly 2,000 men have been converted and seventy, he said, have gone from the city to preach the gospel. He stated that he thought the Baptists in every southern city should have a central missionary station.

Alexander Wester, a Swede, told of the work done by the Baptists among 40,000 of his countrymen in Missouri.

M. N. Call, superintendent of Baptist work in Cuba, described conditions in that island, the progress that has been made and spoke of possibilities for the future.

Dr. W. W. Hamilton, of Atlanta, who has been in charge of the evangelistic work for the Southern Baptist Convention, talked to some extent of its success.

Vast Sums for Missions.

In today's session of the Southern Baptist Convention it was announced that the total apportionments for home missions were raised from $325,000 to $343,500, and the total for foreign missions from $500,000 to $550,000.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the indelicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which dispenses with the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures.

"Favorite Prescription" is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every native medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice.

Some of the numerous and strongest of professional endorsements of its ingredients will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of KNOWN COMPOSITION. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

GEORGIA ENTHUSIASTIC OVER GOOD ROADS CONTEST

ALBANY COMMITTEE HERE ON GOOD ROADS CONTEST

Albany Citizens' Committee Whitch Brought Personal Tender of $1,000 to The Constitution's Good Roads Contest.
On the left, Hon. Henry Tarver, Mayor of Albany, and treasurer of Dougherty county. In the center John A. Davis, business manager Albany Herald. On the right, Hon. N. F. Tift, Chairman of Commission of Roads and Revenues of Dougherty County, which has called meeting of all commissioners of southwest Georgia at Albany June 8, to discuss good roads.

Come to Atlanta to Confer With The Constitution—Albany's $1,000 Offer Only a Starter—Other Towns to Join Movement.

Albany and Dougherty counties, not satisfied with simply telegraphing indorsement of The Constitution's $5,000 good roads contest, and offering $1,000 as a part of the prize fund to be known as the Albany prize, sent a special committee to Atlanta Sunday night to take up with The Constitution the matter of additional details of that part of the contest affecting southwest Georgia.

The delegation consisted of Hon. Henry Tarver, mayor of Albany, and treasurer of Dougherty county; Hon. N. F. Tift, chairman of the county commission of roads and revenues, and John A. Davis, business manager of The Albany Herald.

"We have come to say to The Constitution," said these gentlemen yesterday, "that our people are ready with our $1,000 prize tender whenever it is called for, and all that we ask is that it be offered as an inducement for good roads from Albany towards Atlanta. The Constitution has done many good pieces of work for Georgia, but nothing better than its leadership in the movement to secure cooperative effort of the counties of the state in the building of their state thoroughfares."

Commission to Meet.

Hon. N. F. Tift, chairman of the Dougherty county commission of roads and revenues, said:

"We had already arranged for a meeting of the county commissioners in our immediate territory to assemble in Albany on June 8, but since The Constitution has inaugurated its great state undertaking, our board has concluded to amplify our movement, and we will immediately issue invitations to every county commissioner in all southwest Georgia, and urge them all to assemble in Albany on June 8, at which time we propose to hold the greatest good roads convention that ever assembled in Georgia. Dougherty county has led the fight for good roads in our section of the state, and in a very short time we will have a splendid north and south road through the county, aiming at Macon and Atlanta, northward, and at Thomasville and Florida, southward. If the other counties will simply join us in the effort, we will have as fine a turnpike splitting Georgia from the Florida line through Atlanta to Chattanooga as ever a horse trod upon, or an automobile whirled along. We are going into this thing not so much on the automobile side, however, as the more practical side of helping the farmers reduce their carrying expenses through the medium of good roads facilities. Good roads mean more to the farmer with a one-horse wagon than they do even to the automobilist."

Mayor Tarver Enthusiastic.

"All that Mr. Tift says," said Mayor Henry Tarver, "reflects the views of our county and our section on the all-absorbing topic of good roads, and I want to thank The Constitution for what it has done in stimulating the movement as nothing else could have done. We note that Albany is to be made the central point of starting for our section of the state, and we are going to have automobiles there from every county in that neck of the woods. We want this to be an endurance contest, in which the ordinary commercial machine is to be the factor. We want the other counties to join us, and if they will do what Dougherty is doing, we will make Georgia an object lesson for the whole union."

The Herald's Help.

John A. Davis, business manager of The Albany Herald, said:

"We propose to take this up just as actively as we know how through the columns of The Herald, and I want to secure the cooperation of every county along the proposed route between Albany and Atlanta. For ten years corn and oats have been the shibboleth of The Herald, and so successful has been the war cry that we are raising more of both this year than ever known before. We have the cotton and the cantaloupes, and the grain, and now we want the good roads to haul them. The Constitution has struck the keynote, and I have come all the way from Albany just to tell you that this is the best thing The Constitution ever did, and that The Herald is enlisted with it in this great campaign for good roads. We are going to have a great convention of county commissioners in our city on June 8. We expect to see every town between Albany and Macon enlisted in the movement to raise a great prize for the good roads contest in that territory. If The Constitution will take care of things between Atlanta and Macon, we will handle the situation from Macon to Albany, and we are going to secure the cooperation of every intervening town. Albany is a city that does things when it starts, and we never started in a thing more earnestly than in this."

ATHENS AND CLARKE COUNTY ENTHUSIASTIC OVER SUGGESTION

Athens, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The proposed automobile speed and endurance contests as set forth in the plan of The Constitution meets with the hearty approval of the people of Athens. This city and county are interested deeply in everything that pertains to good roads and all recognize that automobile contests of necessity means the development of highways.

Athens and Clarke county can be depended upon to take full and enthusiastic interest in the contests and her people will be at all times heartily behind this movement.

Hon. Joseph M. Hodgson, chairman of the board of county commissioners, says: "Clarke county is primarily interested in good roads, not only for herself, but for all counties in the state. We would be glad to have one of these automobile contests run through our county and can promise to those in the contest the best stretch of roads to be found anywhere between Atlanta and Augusta. When the autos strike Clarke county they will speed over the very best improved roadway until they leave the county."

Mayor W. F. Dorsey, speaking of the proposed contests, said: "You can count on Athens every time to be right behind all progressive movements. This city is wide-awake and doing things. When you talk about good streets and good roads you strike our long suit. We have spent in the last ten years more than a third of a million dollars on our streets and our county has spent more than $100,000 in improving roads. By all means one of the contests should be through this city. Our people will rally behind the movement."

Charles H. Phinizy, a leading business man of the city, says: "I am in favor of automobile contests. I think they are good things for the development of good roads and good roads mean much to any community. The proposed contests will do much good for every county through which they pass, and Athens and Clarke county, of course, want one of the contests to be pulled off through them. Our people are manifesting considerable interest in the proposition and will do whatever may be necessary to make the contest a success."

HAYNES OFFERS GOOD ROADS CUP

Jeweler Will Present Trophy to Winner of One of the Contests.

"I want to give a cup to one of the winners in The Constitution's great good roads contest" was the statement made yesterday by Eugene V. Haynes, president of the Eugene V. Haynes Co., the well-known Whitehall street jewelry establishment. Mr. Haynes is greatly interested in the movement for better roads throughout Georgia and takes this substantial manner of showing his interest by offering a handsome trophy for one of the contests.

Mr. Haynes is an automobile enthusiast, having just purchased a new car, but he says that it is as a business man and not as an automobilist that he feels his greatest interest in this contest.

"Nothing has ever been proposed in Georgia," said Mr. Haynes, "which has given promise of more vital good to the state than this good roads contest inaugurated by The Constitution. Many Georgia counties are now building good roads, but the inspiration to connect them into long thoroughfares traversing the state from border to border was needed and The Constitution has provided this. Of course, automobile drivers will be intensely interested in the movement, but from a business standpoint it means a great deal more to me than it does as an automobilist."

SPLENDID ROADS NOW CERTAINTY

together all over the state and a well-paved road running past every farm house in the state. There is where the returns are coming from; there is where the greatest good is to be achieved."

"There is no question that Georgia's agricultural advancement is wrapped up in this building of good roads," said Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture R. F. Wright. "It means more farms and better farms. The Georgia farmer has suffered terribly from bad roads; he will be the chief beneficiary of good roads. That The Constitution's contest will serve to hasten and to crystallize this movement, there can be no doubt."

Chairman McLendon's View.

"The Constitution's proposed automobile contest," said Chairman S. G. McLendon, of the railroad commission, "has brought this great question of better roads right home to the people of the state. It will prove, I believe, of incalculable good to Georgia.

"I am one of the most enthusiastic good roads men you have ever seen. I believe that there has been nothing undertaken since the war so important and far-reaching as this matter of improving our public highways.

"It should be done not in any haphazard, spasmodic or disjointed manner, but each improved road should be constructed with a view to its becoming a part of a permanent whole. Parts of the Appian Way, the great Roman road, built 2,000 years ago, are existent today.

"We can and should build for the future. Lands in Georgia are cheap as compared with those in the west, and with good road systems hundreds of sturdy settlers from that section will come in here and new farms will spring up all over Georgia.

"I believe the roads should be developed, too, with an eye to beauty. If I had my way about it I wouldn't leave out a single piece of pretty scenery that could be found anywhere in the state."

Railroad Commissioner O. B. Stevens, who was formerly commissioner of agriculture, looks to the ultimate good to accrue to the farmer. He is a farmer himself and his interest is a native one.

"The Constitution is doing a great work in stimulating road building in Georgia," he said. "I know what the farmer has to contend with on these country roads and what the improvement means to him.

"When a farmer can haul four bales of cotton with a one-horse team where he now hauls two, it means the saving of a whole day's work. Nothing illustrates better than that what there is in this movement for the agricultural classes of our state."

"Our county is working not only toward local roads, but roads which will become parts of important public highways," said Railroad Commissioner C. M. Candler, of DeKalb. "I am heartily in favor of any movement that will encourage not only good road building, but systematic road building throughout the state. I feel sure that this automobile contest over the state will stimulate energy and effort in that direction."

New Treasurer Enthusiastic.

"I am in hearty sympathy with The Constitution's purpose to stimulate good roads construction in Georgia," said Hon. J. Pope Brown, who has just taken charge as Georgia's state treasurer.

"I believe we ought to have a substantially built, well paved road from county site to county site, between all county sites in the state. Such roads as these would form connecting links, one with another, extending in all directions across the state.

"With such a system a man could get in an automobile, or any other vehicle, for that matter, and go all over the state. I have been in a position to see the need of this improvement from the farmer's standpoint, and I know how greatly it will benefit him when it finally comes.

"I am earnest and heartily for the movement, and hope for its unbounded success."

Secretary of State Phil Cook, Comptroller General W. A. Wright, State School Commissioner Jere M. Pound, Adjutant General A. J. Scott and other capitol officials expressed views along the same line.

Professor Pound has an especial interest in good roads building from the standpoint of the schools. In many counties where schools have been consolidated, the pupils are taken to school daily in large wagons. The importance of good roads in these communities is readily apparent.

"It has been evident to me from the eagerness with which the counties have sought to secure the state convicts, that we were on the verge of an era of general good roads construction," said Comptroller General Wright. "I have no question but that The Constitution's contest will prove a valuable stimulus in that important direction."

"I am particularly gratified to note that my home county, Dougherty, has joined in The Constitution's automobile contest for the purpose of encouraging the good roads movement," said Adjutant General Scott. "In my opinion, the beneficial results to the whole state are going to be greater and more far-reaching than we can now estimate."

Such was the tenor of expressions heard everywhere in the corridors of the capitol, and many more of similar point and strength might be given.

It is a proposition upon which, it is evident, all are enthusiastically and earnestly united.

CITY COUNCIL INDORSES GOOD ROADS CONTEST

Resolution Adopted and Was Supplemented by Enthusiastic Statements by All the Aldermen and Councilmen.

The general council of Atlanta, through Councilman Lon Johnson, adopted the following resolution yesterday afternoon by a unanimous vote:

"Whereas, The Atlanta Constitution has inaugurated a plan for a state automobile endurance contest, which means not only a great attraction for the people of the state next November, but also a movement for better and more coordinate road construction throughout Georgia, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the mayor and general council of Atlanta give to the plan its hearty indorsement and encouragement, and urge all classes of citizens to help make the contest a grand success."

Officials Enthusiastic.

The Constitution's automobile contest has met with the enthusiastic indorsement of every member of Atlanta's general council. Statements made by the aldermen and councilmen show that so far as Atlanta is concerned, nothing will be left undone to make the movement for a coordination in road improvement throughout the state a grand success.

To a man the city officials are unstinted in their praise and approval of a plan that means so much for good roads in every section of the state and under a system whereby the public highways will make one continuous series of good roads covering all of Georgia.

The following are the expressions of members of the general council in regard to The Constitution's plan for an automobile contest that will give both an entertaining spectacular exhibition and at the same time awaken a lasting and beneficial interest in the building of good roads in the state:

Officials Enthusiastic.

Mayor Pro Tem. Charles M. Roberts: "I believe The Constitution's automobile contest will result in making the state a network of good roads, connecting county upon county and leaving no longer the public driveways disconnected and without any general system. It is a general plan, and should meet with the indorsement and encouragement of every business man and farmer throughout Georgia."

Alderman A. L. Curtis: "It certainly is a great scheme. We are all more or less delighted to see any kind of an automobile contest, but when one is to be given that will mean good roads in the state, every man of us should put our shoulder to the wheel and help the enterprise along. It must and will succeed."

What the Contest Means.

Alderman Press Huddleston: "If there is any one thing that Georgia needs it is good roads, but that is not all. The good roads should be connected up from county to county until the driveways are one long and continuous system throughout the state. The Constitution's automobile contest has this work for one of its main features, and it, therefore, behooves all Georgians to give it their indorsement. I am certain it is going to be a grand success."

Alderman F. A. Pittman: "A network of good highways in Georgia is the one great thing to be desired. The Constitution's automobile contest will strike a popular chord, and will result in a great and lasting good to the state."

Alderman E. E. Pomeroy: "The Constitution's automobile contest is not an Atlanta enterprise; it is a Georgia enterprise. In my opinion it is going to do more to stimulate the building of good roads in the state than anything that has occurred in years. It is a great scheme, for we are going to have a great automobile contest that will not only entertain thousands of people, but will result in a lasting good to the entire state."

Alderman H. M. Beutell: "I just can't find words strong enough to show my approval of the great automobile contest. Just at this time we need something to awaken interest in road improvement, and The Constitution's plan is just what we want. I don't believe there will be a man in Georgia but who will indorse it and help to make it a success."

No Plan Could Be Better.

Alderman John W. Grant: "I do not think that any plan could have been devised to more stir up the people of Georgia on the good roads question than that inaugurated by The Constitution. There has been some good work done in Georgia, but it needed connecting up so as to give long and continuous driveways throughout the state. I believe every Georgian, whether he be merchant, professional man or farmer, will rally to the support of The Constitution's enterprise."

Alderman W. A. Hancock: "I have always claimed that Georgia needed more good roads, and needed them worked out on a general system that would obliterate county lines so far as public highways are concerned. The Constitution's automobile contest will do wonders to improve Georgia's system of public highways. I am certain that everybody will indorse it."

Alderman John S. Candler: "I have always insisted that some movement was needed to awaken an interest in public road building in Georgia. The Constitution has hit upon a plan that is bound to stir up such interest. It is a scheme upon which every Georgian can united. As a city official of Atlanta I will do all I can to help make it a success."

What the Councilmen Say.

Councilman A. J. Johnson: "It is a great scheme. It means another automobile contest, and it means better highways in Georgia. It was just the thing we needed at this time."

Councilman F. A. Hilburn: "I don't believe anything could have been started that would help Georgia more at this time than The Constitution's automobile contest."

Councilman Eugene Dodd: "I believe the benefits to the road system in Georgia will be quick and lasting as the result of the proposed automobile contest."

Councilman H. A. Boynton: "Georgia has had enough of good roads about in spots. I believe The Constitution's contest of automobiles will give us good and continuous roads from county to county."

Councilman J. C. Harrison: "The enthusiasm in Georgia over The Constitution's automobile contest should be unbounded. It simply means more prosperity because of better roads."

Councilman C. L. Chosewood: "Everybody should take off their hats to The Constitution. It has inaugurated a plan that will mean untold benefits for the upbuilding of every section of Georgia."

Councilman B. Lee Smith: "I believe in a few years from now, when Georgia has a fine system of continuous highways that the people will look back and say that The Constitution's automobile contest was the cause of it."

Councilman C. J. Vaughn: "Such an automobile contest as The Constitution proposes is going to make a new epoch in the road question of the state."

Is a Good Piece of Work.

Councilman W. T. Winn: "The Constitution has certainly put in a good piece of work for the public highways of Georgia. The success of the enterprise means more progress and prosperity for the state."

Councilman D. S. Walraven: "Hurrah, for The Constitution, it's automobile contest and its good roads movement. The plan is just the thing needed to wake up the state and make it more progressive."

Councilman Steve R. Johnston: "We will now have an automobile show over which the city merchant and the country farmer can shake hands. For we are all for good roads, and that is what The Constitution's automobile contest means."

Councilman M. F. Amorous: "Everybody is bound to say, 'success to The Constitution's enterprise,' if he cares to see Georgia with fine roadways stretching from one end of the state to the other."

Councilman F. J. Spratling: "The Constitution's automobile contest will, in my opinion, cause great enthusiasm wherever there lives a Georgian who welcomes any plan for the upbuilding of his state."

Councilman Craig Cofield: "The city of Atlanta is the capital of Georgia, and we Atlantans, therefore, feel a pride in our entire state. We all want Georgia made a network of good roads. The Constitution has started a plan that will bring about this good work."

Was Needed Long Ago.

Councilman J. T. Wright: "Road building in Georgia is far behind what it ought to be. Something should have been done long ago to give us a good system of roadways all over the state. The Constitution's movement is, therefore, timely and fraught with great possibilities for good."

Councilman F. O. Foster: "The Constitution's plan is going to do three things, give us an exciting automobile contest, awaken interest in road improvement and then demonstrate that Georgia's roadways must be one great and connected system."

Councilman E. A. Minor: "We have seen the need of a general road system in the state by driving a few miles on well-paved roads in the country that suddenly ends where a poor road in another county begins. The Constitution's plan will serve to remedy this evil, and it is, therefore, a great scheme."

Councilman Aldine Chambers: "Not only Atlanta, but every other city and every hamlet and every farming district should rally to the earnest support of The Constitution's plan, for it means better roads, and that means more prosperity throughout the state."

JACKSON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO TAKE IMMEDIATE ACTION

Jackson, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The Constitution's $5,000 speed and endurance automobile contest has created lively interest in Jackson and Butts county. The matter will be taken up by the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting Tuesday night, and at that time steps will be taken to lend whatever cooperation and assistance in the power of the people of the town.

Jackson is midway between Atlanta and Macon, and is situated on the logical route for the course between the two cities. It is certain that everything possible will be done to assist in this great undertaking, which means so much for good roads in Georgia.

Just about everybody in Butts county is in favor of good roads. The county commissioners are now on a deal with Monroe county for an exchange of convicts and work. The meeting between the commissioners of the two will be held in Forsyth tomorrow.

There is going to be more than ordinary interest in the course here in Butts county due to the fact that the rivalry between the route from Atlanta to Macon via McDonough and Jackson along the Southern railway and the route via Barnesville and Forsyth and Griffin is very keen.

Jackson is one of the leading automobile towns of middle Georgia, and the owners of cars are for good roads without exception. Mayor S. O Ham, of Jackson, and President T. H. Buttrill, of the Chamber of Commerce, and other citizens prominent in the town of Jackson and the county of, are heartily in favor of good roads and will lend all the assistance in their power in the movement.

HAD NOT ENJOYED A MEAL IN YEARS

Arkansas Farmer Follows Advice of Cooper, and Gains Fifteen Pounds in Few Weeks.

A. D. Henry, a prominent farmer living on Rural Route No. 5, Jonesboro, Ark., in a statement given for publication, tells a story that makes interesting reading for persons who suffer from stomach trouble. Mr. Henry says:

"For six years I was a chronic sufferer from stomach trouble. In all that time I did not eat a meal or enjoy it. No matter what I ate it caused pain and distress. Food laid in a hard lump upon my stomach. I lost in flesh and strength, and was unable to find relief. I suffered night and day—was robbed of my sleep and rest, and arose in the morning as tired as when I went to bed. I was completely run down, and derived no benefit from any medicine I took.

"One day while in town my druggist recommended Cooper's New Discovery. I had noticed several articles in the newspapers regarding this man Cooper's work in the larger cities, and decided to give his medicine a trial. Its effect surprised me. Before I had taken all of the first bottle I felt wonderfully improved. The pain and distress had left me, my appetite was good, my bowels were moving regularly and naturally, and I began to sleep soundly at night.

"I continued the treatment, taking several more bottles, and in six weeks' time I felt like a new man, fully restored to health and strength. I gained fifteen pounds while taking the Cooper medicine. I cannot say enough in praise of Cooper's New Discovery—it brought new life to me."

The theory of L. T. Cooper is based upon common sense reasoning. When asked recently why his medicine is so successful, he replied: "My New Discovery is successful because it corrects the stomach. My theory is that few can be sick if the digestive apparatus is working properly. It naturally follows that few can be well with a poor digestion. I know from experience that most of the tired, half-sick people that are so common now-a-days have half-sick stomachs. Put the stomach in shape, and nature does the rest. The result is general good health. My medicine does this."

Cooper's New Discovery is a boon to stomach sufferers. It is sold by all druggists everywhere. A sample bottle mailed free upon request by addressing The Cooper Medicine Company, Dayton, Ohio.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO HOLD CONVENTION AT FITZGERALD

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The officers of the Fitzgerald Automobile Association have, with the sanction of the county commissioners of Ben Hill county, called a convention of the county commissioners of the counties of Lowndes, Berrien, Tift, Irwin, Dougherty, Worth, Turner, Thomas, Colquitt, Ware, Coffee, Wilcox, Pulaski and Houston, which are particularly interested in the highways that will branch out from this point to Waycross, Jacksonville, Daytona, Fla., Valdosta and on into Florida, and Thomasville and extreme southwest Georgia to Albany, and by that route in the counties of Baker, Mitchell, Miller, Early, Clay, Calhoun, Terrell and Randolph.

The convention of the County Officers' Association will be in session here at that time, and it is expected that every county interested will be represented by its commissioners in this special feature that means so much for Georgia roads as planned in The Constitution's scheme.

The Constitution's good road movement has certainly worked up enthusiasm in Fitzgerald and Ben Hill county. A large and most enthusiastic meeting was held in Mayor J. G. Knapp's office, composed of county commissioners and city officials, as well as a number of business people this afternoon. A committee was appointed to push the matter along. Three scout cars will be used over the proposed route via Abbeville, Hawkinsville, Perry to Macon, when a meeting will be asked. The Constitution to meet a committee from Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald and Ben Hill county have only recently issued $200,000 worth of bonds, part of which is for Georgia roads. All county roads are being put in good condition, and eight miles of 44-foot clay road has already been built on the proposed route to Atlanta.

"ALBANY WILL SEE TO ITS END," SAYS THE HERALD EDITORIALLY

Albany, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The Constitutions $5,000 state automobile contest announced yesterday has been enthusiastically received in Albany, where it has been a subject of discussion today among business men in general and automobile enthusiasts in particular. It is a settled fact that Albany's cooperation in the enterprise will be of the most cordial nature.

The Herald had on Saturday announced the advance details of an automobile race from Albany to Atlanta, and states editorially this afternoon that this race, planned to take place in the fall, will, of course, be combined with the more extensive project announced by The Constitution.

The Herald says, in part:

"The Albany-Atlanta race announced by The Herald Saturday and the big state-wide contest announced yesterday by The Constitution will, of course, be combined. With Albany enthusiastically pushing the enterprise at this end of the line and providing a handsome purse for the southwest Georgia department of the contest, it should prove a leader in popular interest. Indeed, Albany should, and will, see to it that Albany's end is kept at the front from now until the end of the big races."

FREE GASOLINE AT MILLEDGEVILLE

Milledgeville, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The interest in The Constitution's effort to concentrate the attention of the people of the state, and especially of the county commissioners of the counties, to cooperate and make the first improvement of roads in their counties a link of some definite state thoroughfare, has been greatly augmented by the $5,000 contest.

Milledgeville can and should be on the lines from Augusta, Savannah and Brunswick, and she will unquestionably be on the great cross-state line from Augusta to Columbus.

Chairman G. C. McKinley, of Baldwin's county commissioners, said the geographical position of our county and the physical conditions of her roads are today such as to warrant the pathfinders, without hesitation, placing this county on at least three of the proposed routes, as well as on the route across the state from Augusta to Columbus, but good as our roads are today, they will be even better when the race is on.

Free Gasoline.

Another gentleman said: "I shall petition our council at its next meeting to set aside a fund to be used to supply tourists who come through Milledgeville with enough gasoline to carry them to any one of the adjoining county seats, provided they have come from any one of them that day, or in other words, if you travel 25 miles through Baldwin county and register at Milledgeville, you get enough gasoline to transport you across the county free."

J. L. Sibley said: "I have been enthusiastic for good roads all my life, and attended one of the first state conventions held for that purpose in Atlanta some twenty years ago. I will, therefore, head a subscription for a fund to be divided among the convicts whose labor creates the state highways that will pass through Milledgeville, from Savannah, Augusta or Brunswick.

Big enough to relieve you of the risk and trouble of holding half a dozen responsible for the same job.

Good enough to reward your confidence in its sole accountability.

That is the measure of our plant—a place worth seeking the next time you have securities or catalogues to print.

The INNER SHRINE

A Novel of Today

Once in a lifetime a brilliant star may flash across the sky, and it is interesting to note how quickly comes recognition and wide acclaim.

With one accord readers have granted to "The Inner Shrine" those qualities which men have agreed to call great. Here, they say, is distinction, strength, and vigor, here is tenderness, sweetness, crystal clearness, and that certainty of touch which marks the master. Whether the writer is already Famous or not, this is what they say of this great work:

Lillian Whiting Writes from Boston:

"Many of us are simply lying awake nights trying to conjure up the author of 'The Inner Shrine,' which takes hold of one as no work of fiction has for unremembered years."

Never did so many readers beg for advance proofs when the story was running serially in HARPER'S. NOW the book is all here—AT LAST.

COUNCIL HOLDS BUSY SESSION

Many Important Matters Were Acted Upon.

Lakewood Lease Went to Lowest Bidder—Forrest Avenue Matter Sent Back to Committee—Ordinance for City Paymaster Sent to Committee.

Among the important matters disposed of at the meeting of the general council yesterday were the following:

The committee on public buildings and grounds recommended that the lease for five years of Lakewood park be given to Julius Billet for $2,200. The other bid was from S. M. Wolff for $3,500. The committee thought it best to accept Billet's bid because he had conducted the place in a first-class manner and had redeemed its character. The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

An amendment was adopted to an ordinance for the keeping of back yards clean, so as to allow citizens owning cows and horses to pay the $2 tax to the tax collector if the city removes the manure from the premises.

A resolution was adopted by a rising vote, expressing the gratification of council at the presence of City Attorney Hill, who recently recovered from severe illness. Mr. Hill said the action of council was highly appreciated.

A resolution was read appropriating $150 to send two officials to attend the National Conference of Charities, the council committee to name the officials. A motion was read to lay the paper on the table and the motion was lost. Councilman Foster made a strong appeal for the adoption of the resolution. A resolution was made to appropriate $150 for fly screens at the Grady hospital to protect the sick patients. The motion was lost. The resolution first offered was then adopted.

More Near Beer Laws.

An ordinance came with a favorable report from the police committee requiring near beer dealers to advertise five days for a permit and secure written consent from the landlord and at least two merchants on the same block with the saloon.

Councilman Chambers offered as an amendment that one of the merchants be next door to the saloon. The amendment was lost, and the original ordinance was adopted.

An ordinance was introduced by Councilman Spratling prohibiting any signs on windows and screens at the entrance to near beer saloons. The ordinance was referred to the police committee. A similar ordinance was introduced by Councilman Cofield.

W. H. Terrell was elected a member of the bond commission from the first ward to succeed W. O. Stamps, resigned.

J. R. Smith was elected a member of the board of education from the second ward to succeed himself. Courtland S. Winn was elected to the same board from the second ward to succeed himself. The terms of both expire on May 28.

To Extend Car Line.

A petition was read from the Georgia Railway and Electric Company for permission to extend its street car line on West Peachtree street to Ponce de Leon avenue. The petition was referred to the committee on electric and other railways.

The street committee reported that it had rescinded its former action in ordering tile sidewalks laid on Forrest avenue between Peachtree and Jackson streets.

Councilman Johnston made a statement in which he said that he had been unjustly criticised for trying to make Forrest avenue a much more attractive street. He read a number of letters from citizens asking that tile sidewalks be laid.

Alderman Huddleston, chairman of the street committee, stated that the committee had ordered tile sidewalks laid because the members had been led to believe that the present sidewalk should be condemned.

Alderman Pomeroy wanted the matter again investigated by the street committee.

The matter was referred to the street committee.

An ordinance was introduced by Councilman Spratling requiring riders on bicycles and motorcycles to dismount and walk at crowded street corners. The paper was referred to the ordinance committee.

An ordinance by Alderman Beutell providing for a city paymaster was referred to the special committee that is investigating the city's system of bookkeeping.

Man Run Over by Train.

Ennis, Tex., May 17.—John A. Kennedy was run over and killed near here today by a Texas Midland railroad train. The body was so badly cut to pieces that it was picked up and placed in a basket. The police believe Kennedy was murdered and his body placed on the track.

Some of the Badges Which Will Be Seen On Georgia Elks Today.

BEST PEOPLE ON EARTH TALKED ABOUT IN SONG

Several seasons ago at one of the local theaters Nat Wills made a hit, which he has repeated here since with which he has repqeated here since, with comes into prominence with the convention of the Elks which begins this morning. It will probably be sung many times before the Georgia "Best People on Earth" bid Atlanta goodby.

The first verse of "B. P. O. E.," words and music by Mr. Wills, will tell you something about the Elks if you happen not to know:

"There's a bunch of good fellows who've banded together,
They're known throughout the land,
And to thousands of folks who were down on their luck
They have lent a helping hand.
The order of Elks are the men that I mean,
And their motto is sweet charity,
Their emblem's the head of an Elk on a button
With four letters, B. P. O. E.

CHORUS.

"They're the best people on earth, B. P. O. E.;
They are the people who do the most good.
When you're an Elk you will see what they'll do for you.
We never will know the half of their charity,
Good fellows together, in all sorts of weather, the B. P. O. E."

ELKS ARE HERE FOR THREE DAYS OF CONVENTION

this time. After they register they receive an official badge, etc., and a book of tickets to all the shows in town. Then they are turned loose to look at the town.

The Elks commenced arriving Sunday, and they are still coming by ones, twos and by train-loads, some lodges arriving on special trains.

The number in the city is estimated at 2,000, and before the convention is over it is figured 3,000 visitors will be in Atlanta, this number forming one of the largest conventions held here in years.

The convention starts today at 10:30 o'clock and winds up Thursday night.

The opening this morning will be the only meeting open to the public, all others to be secret. Governor Smith will make the address of welcome at this open meeting. His will be in behalf of the state, and will be responded to by Hon. R. A. Denny, of Rome. Mayor Maddox is to make the address of welcome for the city, and Hon Joseph E. Bottle, of Milledgeville, will make the response.

212 Autos in Parade.

The automobile parade will be the event of the first afternoon of the convention.

No. 78, the local lodge which is welcoming the visitors with a huge electric sign over Schaul & May's, flashing "78 Welcomes Georgia Elks," is expecting to have 212 autos in line. This number will equal the world's record for an automobile parade. When the Atlantic fleet reached San Francisco on its cruise around the world, the auto parade in its honor had 212 machines in procession, the largest number on record. Maybe Atlanta will go 'Frisco one or two better this afternoon. The band will consist of sixteen pieces, and there will be two trumpeters to assist in the fanfare.

The cars will be beautifully decorated. Prizes of $25, $15 and $10 are offered for the best decorated machines, with John J. Woodside, John K. Ottley and Ed Inman as judges.

The parade will disperse at the junction of Peachtree and West Peachtree streets, after a tour of the city.

Ponce de Leon will be visited at night, and the trip to Atlanta's popular amusement park winds up the first day, which will have been full of pleasure and free from business for the "Bills."

Perhaps the day won't end for some of the bunch, for they do say Elks believe in a good time, and some of them belong to the midnight crowd.

Good Times for Visitors.

They have a fine club house to hang out in on Peachtree street, and the lights may burn till morning. Anyway, whether they leave off or not tonight, there's a program for Wednesday, and others for the succeeding days of the convention.

If anyone has happened to overlook the fact, this is the annual convention of the Georgia lodges, and Georgia has a number of Elks within her confines. The Atlanta lodge has left nothing undone for the entertainment of the visitors, and is having a splendid cooperation on the part of the Gate City citizens, who have extensively decorated their places of business in honor of the occasion. Never before in Atlanta's history of conventions has the business section of the city been so prettily decorated. Everybody is welcoming the jolly boys with the insignia of their lodge, and everywhere you go you run across "Oh, You Bill," "Hello, Bill," "Welcome Elks," and other inscriptions in large letters, the whole business done in the colors of the order, purple and white. If everyone is not an Elk all must know about the order, for evidences of the convention are everywhere.

Twenty-three lodges compose the Georgia association, and they are all represented by numbers of delegates and visitors. Bernard C. Broyles, of Atlanta, is president of the state association; C. R. Wright, of Macon, is secretary; L. R. Akin, of Brunswick, vice president; B. C. Jones, of Macon, vice president, and H. M. McIntosh, of Albany, treasurer.

Big Parade on Thursday.

The total membership of the state association is 6,000, and fully one-half of that membership will visit Atlanta during the convention. The largest crowd will be here on the last day, Thursday, for the mammoth street parade, in which all of the lodges will be represented. Prizes are offered for those making the best appearance. The list was augmented yesterday by the offering of Hal Morrison, the local artist, who contributed a painting of an Elk for the first prize in addition to the $250 already offered.

In this parade will be the Atlanta, Athens, Brunswick, Columbus, Augusta, Macon, Savannah, Rome, LaGrange, Thomasville, Tifton, Cordele, Carrollton, Milledgeville, Bainbridge, Valdosta, Albany, Gainesville, Elberton, Americus, Fitzgerald, Waycross and Hawkinsville lodges, and each will make strong bids for the prizes, which amount to $1,000.

Each man will be in regulation uniform, which consists of a white hat with a purple band, bearing the letters, B. P. O. E., blue serge coat, white flannel trousers, white shoes, purple sox, purple tie and a white band around the left arm with B. P. O. E. on it. Canes with Elk banners on them will be carried also. Then there will be fancy costumes for the fancy lodges. Major J. D. Dunwoody will be grand marshal, with Lieutenants Morgan and Seamans. At the junction of the two Peachtrees the parade will form. The line of march is down Peachtree to Broad, Broad to Mitchell, Mitchell to Forsyth, Forsyth to Trinity avenue, into Whitehall, over the viaduct to Peachtree and to the club house, where the parade will disband.

Mathiessen's band of sixty-five pieces will be at the head of the procession, and at intervals will be fifteen other bands, helping to form the largest parade ever held in Atlanta.

Business and Pleasure.

The first important business meeting of the convention occurs Wednesday morning at the Grand, and all Elks are requested to be present. The big barbecue comes at 1 o'clock at the Coliseum at Piedmont park, and the Lyric and other theaters will be visited at night. Tickets for the Wednesday night performance at the Lyric are given the visitors as soon as they reach the city by those in charge of registration and information bureau in the lobby of the Aragon hotel.

The final business session comes at the Grand at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning, when officers will be elected, the selection of the next meeting place will be made and other important matters will come up.

The street parade is in the afternoon, and the reception and dance at the club house at night. This event marks the close of the big convention.

Delegation from Augusta.

Augusta, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—A big delegation of Augusta Elks left tonight for Atlanta to attend the annual convention of the Georgia State Association. Among the party from here are the following:

Messrs. Louis Brooks, J. A. Burke, J. F. Carswell, J. M. Cranston, J. L. Curtis, C. R. Dance, C. E. Dunbar, Mayor Dunbar, J. H. Dysant, W. H. Fessenden, T. M. Fitzpatrick, Fred Gehrken, Jr., H. W. Goodyear, L. H. Hilton, Sim Bell, Joe Lawrence, E. A. Lamar, C. W. Beasly, Frank Mimms, S. F. Morris, W. E. Mobley, W. D. Ramsey, James G. Seigler, F. G. Turpin and W. O. Tarver.

Although the local lodge is not a member of the association, there is no hard feeling against the other lodges of the state, and the Elks who attend from here will be present as individual members.

Exalted Ruler of Elks.

8 TO 16 YEARS FOR CAPT. HAINS

Indeterminate Sentence for Slayer of Annis.

Hains Seemed to Have Difficulty in Understanding the Questions Put to Him—Appeal Will Be Filed by Attorneys for Hains.

Flushing, N. Y., May 17.—Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., United States army, who was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for killing William E. Annis at the Bayside Yacht Club last August was sentenced today by Justice Garretson in the supreme court to an indeterminate sentence of not less than eight years nor more than sixteen years at hard labor in state's prison.

John F. McIntyre, counsel for the defendant, made a motion for a new trial. Justice Garretson denied this motion, and declined to consider a motion in regard to the jurisdiction. The court clerk then instructed Captain Hains to come to the bar and proceeded to ask him the questions usually put to a man about to be sentenced.

Hains Did Not Understand.

The prisoner seemed to have some difficulty in understanding the questions. Lawyers McIntyre and Young, of the defense, stood on either side of Captains Hains and assisted him in answering the questions of the court clerk. In passing sentence Justice Garretson said he was not aware that any errors of law had been committed during the trial. Referring to the nature of the case the court said that Captain Hains had been indicted for murder in the first degree, the severest crime against society, and although there had been a great deal of sympathy injected into the case, the law did not allow a man to punish another for wrong he had suffered or wreak vengeance on the man who had wronged him.

After Justice Garretson had imposed the sentence Captain Hains sat down and dropped his head on the table before him. He seemed overcome with emotion for a few moments, but soon recovered himself and sat upright, staring at the court.

General Hains, the defendant's father, and Major John Hains, who were in court, displayed much emotion. Immediately after sentence the prisoner's lawyers asked for a stay of sentence for a few days in order to take an appeal. Justice Garretson said the case would take the usual course, and gave the defense twenty-four hours in which to file an appeal. He then remanded Captain Hains to the custody of the sheriff.

After Captain Hains had been taken back to Queens county jail, Mr. McIntyre, his counsel, said he had not decided whether to appeal the case. He said he would go to the United States court and endeavor to obtain a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that Captain Hains' conviction was unconstitutional.

IT'S A CRIME TO DRINK FROM YOUR OWN BOTTLE

Kansas Has the Most Drastic "Dry" Law on Record.

Topeka, Kan., May 17.—Henceforth it is a crime to drink intoxicating liquors even from your own bottle in the state passed by the last legislature in an of Kansas. The law, which is said to be the most drastic in existence, was endeavor to supplement the prohibition law, violations of which have been notorious. The new law is now in effect.

Until a year or two ago, "joints" were openly conducted in Topeka, Leavenworth, Wichita, Kansas City and others of the larger cities of the state under a system of municipal fines. These have practically all been closed.

CONGRESS IS TOLD TO MARCH TO HADES

Rough Answer Is Given by the Engineer Department of the Army.

Washington, May 17.—"Congress can go to hell. We will report when we get ready."

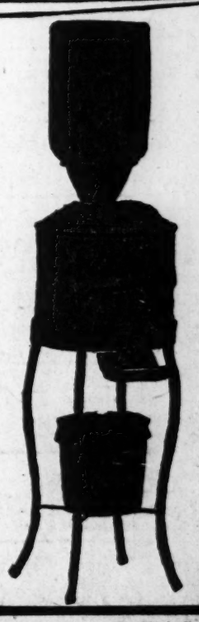

This, said Mr. Clark, of Missouri, in the house of representatives today, was the response given by the engineer department of the army, when asked for information regarding the result of the examination made by the engineers' office into the practicability and desirability of constructing and maintaining a navigable channel 14 feet deep and of suitable width from St. Louis to the mouth of the Mississippi river.

The subject was brought up when Mr. Bartholdt, of Missouri, offered a resolution calling upon the secretary of war for the report.

Mr. Alexander, of New York, the prospective chairman of the rivers and harbar committee, insisted that no report had been submitted. That, however, was denied by Mr. Bartholdt, who declared that the report had been made three months ago. Mr. Clark at this juncture made the statement quoted.

The resolution failed of adoption through an objection by Mr. Alexander.

MORE DAYLIGHT QUESTION UP TO TAFT AND CABINET

A delegation from Cincinnati, representing the National Daylight Association, called upon the president and requested him to take the initiative reform movement directed against the clock. The idea of the movement is to begin the day two hours earlier during the simmertime to give longer hours for afternoon and evening recreation. It is proposed that on the first of each May the clock shall be turned back two hours, the readjusted time to remain in effect until October 1, when, with the later rising of the sun, the clock shall again be turned forward to the present standard of time. It was explained to the president that little progress could be made in the direction desired by the association without the support of the national government.

As railroad and mail schedules and national banking hours would be immediately affected by the change, the president suggested to his callers that they take the matter up with Postmaster General Hitchcock and Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh. This they did.

Secretary Meyer, of the navy department, is contemplating putting into effect an order to have the clerks of his department report for work at 8 instead of 9 a. m., and to stop an hour earlier in the afternoon.

The delegation from Cincinnati was headed by E. H. Murdock and included J. G. Schmidlapp, L. A. Ault, Julius Fleischman, George R. Bolch, J. Stacy Hill, George W. Anderson, Jr., and George Armstrong.

Maine's Lumber Cut.

Bangor, Me., May 17.—With the season's lumber cutting operations practically at an end, it is estimated that the cut in Maine this year amounted to about 700,000,000 feet. As compared with other seasons, these figures show no appreciable gain or loss. Much of the lumber cut will be taken to the pulp mills to be converted into paper.

THE STATE'S AWAKENING TO GOOD ROADS.

Prominent Atlantans who have commended in strong and emphatic terms The Constitution's $5,000 automobile endurance contest, covering the roads of Georgia between the Tennessee and Florida lines, were prompt to catch the spirit of this enterprise whose ultimate aim is a network of substantially built and well paved public roads, crossing and recrossing the state, north, south, east, west and to intermediate points of the compass.

It is not merely the good county road here and there, one in Whitfield and another Washington, one in Gordon and another in Greene, but a union of all these at county lines into great state highways which will reduce distances, make neighbors of those living in adjoining counties, bring country and city into closer and more intimate touch, and cut preliminary transportation charges from farm to market squarely in half.

It is the county co-ordination and co-operation in road building which the state needs; it is that which will be the longest and the surest step into the prosperty of the future.

It is that fact, that aim, which Atlantans have emphasized in commending The Constitution's appropriate and timely undertaking.

Brief excerpts from their statements will indicate how they look upon it not as a momentary and passing event, soon to be forgotten, but an enterprise fraught with meaning to the future.

"Such a contest will mean a development in Georgia with possibilities almost unlimited."—Beaumont Davison.

"It paves the way for a network of good roads throughout Georgia."—Asa G. Candler, president chamber of commerce.

"It will stimulate highway construction all over Georgia."—Lucian York.

"Coupled with the fact that the good roads movement is to be brought to the front, the possibilities of the enterprise are immense."—Henry S. Johnson.

"As the contest must necessarily mean the development of good roads, there comes a second benefit greater than the first."—Robert E. O'Donnelly.

"Whatever tends to give the state better roads, means prosperity."—William R. McClellan.

"It will bring the different sections of Georgia into closer contact and make Georgians more than ever one united people."—Mayor Robert F. Maddox.

They all lead directly to the point that—

While the automobile endurance contests will arouse interest and enthusiasm in the automobile itself as a means of transportation, which has passed from the luxury stage into that of necessity, much greater and more far reaching advantages lie beyond—the redemption of Georgia from a miserable road system that has held her back decades in the race for progress.

When Napoleon planned his masterly campaigns in Italy, he was asked, "But how about the Alps?"

"There will be no Alps," was his significant reply, and soon the master road builder had constructed the Simplon pass which, built more than a hundred years ago, remains today one of the greatest of European traffic highways.

There were no Alps for Napoleon and as the result of his energy and determination, there are no Alps for the travelers of today.

That famous road is now dotted with prosperous farmhouses, inns and hotels catering daily to the hundreds of travelers who pass where Napoleon paved the way.

Beyond these automobile contests lie Georgia's Italy—her progress and prosperity, more rapid and complete than any she has yet known.

Bad roads have been Georgia's obstacle; she is going to remove it as Napoleon shoved aside the Alps and went on.

And The Constitution's great endurance contests are going to be an important means to that desired end.

Announcement of them was not cold when enterprising Georgia counties began to fall in line.

Dougherty offers $1,000 and will proceed at once to co-operate with her neighboring counties in making solid, substantial roads that will begin and end—somewhere.

Ben Hill county, and wide-awake Fitzgerald comes today with another $1,000. And the fact cannot be lost sight of that all this agitation, enterprise and hard wok, means more even for the country than for the city.

The automobile contest is a thing for a day; it is ephemeral; it will pass.

But the good road, paved and surfaced and well kept, will, remain to be traveled generation after generation which the future is yet to bring.

The spirit of the contest will infuse itself into the spirit of good roads progress and there remain like leaven to its work.

And every good road that passes the farmhouse not only adds just that much to its value, but brings immediate and substantial return in the lessened cost of wagon transportation.

This enterprise, therefore, is fraught with meaning to every owner of a one-horse shay.

Upon a paved road even the "plug" can do more than twice the work he does in mudholes and ruts from which he must, not infrequently, be dug out.

And the one-mule wagon will bring to town five bales of cotton where it now brings one.

Georgia farmhouses are built as closely as possible to the railroad lines, and the planting is done with a view to securing the shortest possible haul.

But when Georgia is lined and interlined with a network of substantial and well paved roads, farms will spring up in what are now the woods.

It will no longer be necessary to plant cotton and corn and hay right back of the railroad station.

For five miles of good road will bring the farm closer to the railroad track than a single mile of bad.

This is the great ultimate good toward which Georgia and Georgians are looking forward today.

It will come and The Constitution will feel abundantly rewarded in that the contests it has inaugurated will be an important and compelling factor in the attainment.

GEORGIA'S NEW TREASURER.

With a native business ability demonstrated in the successful management of a large farm, and with wide public experience gained as a member of the legislature and as state railroad commissioner, Hon. J. Pope Brown, of Hawkinsville, goes into the office of state treasurer well qualified to fulfill its important duties and well equipped for dealing with the public.

Mr. Brown has just made his bond, taken the required oath and received his commission; the state treasury is once more open, in capable hands and ready for business.

The appointment of Mr. Brown will give general satisfaction. Having just disposed of practically all his farming interests, and wavering, as it were, between new lines of activity and retirement, the tender of the office of state treasurer came just at the moment when he could best afford to take it and to give to it all of his time.

A man of force and earnestness, a native Georgian of native ability, Mr. Brown will make Georgia an able and a careful state official.

INVESTING SOUTHERN MONEY IN THE SOUTH.

Criticising the one-time tendency of southern people to place their financial surplus in alien investments, The Manufacturers' Record draws the following picture of the inevitable penalty of such procedure:

> If the South had only kept at home during the last 40 years the millions and tens of millions of dollars that its people have invested in purely speculative things of which they knew nothing, and had kept at home the hundreds of millions that it has lost in trying to beat Wall Street speculators in cotton, its wealth would be far greater than it is today.

While the implied rebuke of The Record is directed more forcibly at the universal itch for quick-rich investments, the same statements would hold true with regard to commercial investments generally.

There can be no question that in years past the tendency of southern trust-funds and capital, expressed here and there, to find investment in northern, eastern and western securities and enterprises, has definitely impeded the development of this section.

It is a fact, of course, that in many instances wildcat legislation or demagogical agitation frightened capital away to other sections. Even this factor does not, however, entirely explain the discrepancy. The most plausible explanation might be found in that hesitation to patronize home industries that is seen opposing campaigns in favor of domestic manufacturers.

Happily, the tide has been turned and now appears to be flowing increasingly in the right direction. In the degree that southern investments, established or contemplated, offer remunerative dividends and safety of capital, they should have the preference uniformly over those in other sections.

That way lies commercial growth reflecting itself in a multiplication of new projects no less than in expansion of the old ones.

TEXTILE MEN TO MEET IN CONVENTION SOON

State Industrial Association in Session at Warm Springs June 11 and 12.

Charles D. Tuller, secretary and treasurer of the Georgia Industrial Association, is now busily engaged in preparing a program for the annual meeting of the association, which will be held at Warm Springs, Ga., on June 11 and 12.

This association has for its members all of the textile mills in the state of Georgia, and it is believed that this convention will be more largely attended than any other meeting ever held in the past. Matters of importance and great interest to textile manufacturers will be considered. An outline of the program will be announced by Mr. Tuller as soon as it is completed.

At the head of the association are some of the most prominent manufacturers in the state. Dr. Jeff Davis, of Toccoa, Ga., is president and H. P. Meikleham, of Lindale, Ga., vice president. The executive committee is headed by J. P. Verdery, of Augusta, and the legislative committee has for its chairman S. C. Dunlap, of Gainesville, Ga.

Enlarging G. S. & F. Shops.

Macon, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Dirt was broken today for enlargements and additions to shops of the Georgia, Southern and Florida railway here that will cost $250,000, the yard and trackage improvements, the enlargement of the engine terminal and round house will all be included in the additions that will be made. The officials of the road placed a force this morning, under charge of the Hall & Parker Construction Company, at the grading that will be necessary for the foundations of the buildings what will be put up. This is another valuable addition to the railway equipment and facilities for this city, and the announcement of the enterprise will reveal a more than healthy condition of business with the road. A large force of laboring people will be employed in the construction of the improvements.

CITY'S FIRST MAYOR GIVEN A NEW GRAVE

Body of Moses Formwalt Will Have a Final Resting Place.

The general council yesterday afternoon adopted a recommendation from the cemetery commission that the body of Moses Formwalt be moved from its present resting place in Oakland cemetery and buried on a lot in block 11, section 10, south of the fountain and southeast of the office building in Oakland.

Mr. Formwalt was buried many years ago on lot 826, which he purchased from the city. His widow subsequently sold the lot, and it is now the property of the heirs of the late Marcus A. Bell. About a year ago a lot was set aside for the reburial of Mr. Formwalt, but upon investigation it was found that this lot was in the pauper district, and had pauper graves on it.

Thief Returns Fire.

Macon, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Sidney Brooks had a narrow escape from death at his residence on Second street last night when he accosted a chicken thief at the coop. The thief was ordered to put up his hands, but instead he ran. Brooks used a shotgun, and fired both loads at him.

When the negro reached the fence he took aim and fired three shots from a revolver at the man with the gun, but all went wild. Brooks fell flat on the ground and escaped. The negro ran away, and was not captured.

May Move on Steel Trust.

Washington, May 17.—The house today passed the Burleson resolution calling on the attorney general of the United States to inform it, if not incompatible with public interests, what steps, if any, have been taken by him or any official of his department under his direction to annul the contract whereby the United States Steel Corporation acquired the interests of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company.

FOR THE WIDENING OF THREE STREETS

Appraisers to Begin Condemnation Proceedings at Once.

J. H. Ewing was appointed appraiser by the general council yesterday afternoon to institute condemnation proceedings at once for the widening of three central business streets.

The sum of $10,000, or so much thereof as may benecessary, was appropriated to condemn and purchase a portion of the southeast corner of Pryor street and Edgewood avenue, so as to widen Edgewood avenue at that point.

Five thousand dollars was appropriated to condemn and purchase the southwest corner of Edgewood avenue and Ivy streets, so as to widen Gilmer street.

An appropriation of $3,000 was made to condemn a strip of land to widen Exchange place, between Edgewood avenue and Ivy street.

Under an agreement made with Joel Hurt, when the southwest corner of Edgewood avenue and Pryor street is condemned and purchased, he will donate to the city, free of all cost, the southwest corner of Edgewpod avenue and Ivy street, and the strip of land to widen Exchange place. It was Mr. Hurt's fair and liberal offer which induced the general council to take up the matter and push it through. The appropriations were made as a matter of legal form.

The widening of Gilmer street is very important, as it is the main approach to the auditorium.

The appraiser will go to work at once. He is well qualified to act, as he was for several years one of the city's tax assessors.

PROBING COMMITTEE BEGINS WORK TODAY

Waterworks Department to Be Taken Up First—Manager Says He Is Ready.

The special council committee appointed to investigate the city's bookkeeping and general business system will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when work will begin on an investigation of the waterworks department.

At the meeting of the general council yesterday afternoon Councilman Chambers, chairman of the special committee, had a resolution adopted empowering the committee to summon witnesses and have them testify under oath during the investigation.

General Manager Woodward says he is ready for the committee, and that the investigation will show that his department is up-to-date in its management and system of bookkeeping. He says he will be able to quickly show to the committee that there are no lax methods in his department.

COTTON SEED CRUSHERS ON WAY TO MEMPHIS

The Cotton Seed Crushers of Georgia, combined with those of South Carolina, made up a special train which pulled out of the Terminal station yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock en route to Memphis, Tenn., where the annual meeting of the Interstate Association will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Each year the Georgia delegation has been the largest state delegation which has attended these meetings, and this has always been a matter of pride to those who worked up this splendid attendance.

This year the work of getting up the special train has devolved upon Fielding Wallace, of Augusta, and Robert G. Riley, of Albany, of the interstate governing committee, and S. A. Corker, of this city, of the local committee in charge.

NEGRO ATTACKS MARTIN.

Prominent Man of Elbert County Narrowly Escapes Death.

Elberton, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Yesterday afternoon, at Middleton, his home, Hon. L. H. O. Martin, candidate for commissioner of agriculture, was seriously injured by being struck on the head and arm with a stick in the hands of Ben Downer, a negro.

Downer was in Martin's back yard, cursing and drinking, and the cook called on Mr. Martin to make him leave. Martin went out and ordered Downer to leave, when Downer insulted him, and Martin struck him with a stick. The negro then took the stick away from Martin and struck him over the head. Mr. Martin threw up his arm to ward off the blow, and got a bad lick on the arm, but that lessened the lick on his head. The blow knocked Mr. Martin ten feet. Physicians were immediately summoned, but they report the wounds as painful, but not necessarily serious. Downer escaped.

War Survivors' First Meeting.

Macon, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Edward A. Newton and John Hartlett, two of the three only surviving members of the Floyd Rifles, who surrendered at Appomattox, had their first meeting here this morning since they broke ranks more than forty years ago. As they shook hands tears moistened the eyes of both. They spent several hours together. Patrol Officer Champ Drew extended both the invitation to the annual barbecue of the Floyd Rifles, which will be held next month. This officer is secretary of the organization of the old members here. The strange feature of the meeting was in the fact that the officer was at the very moment he found the two men at the union depot making plans to have both of them invited to the reunion, and he was wondering where he would be able to find them.

Limitation of Armaments.

Washington, May 17.—As well known, preliminary to the second peace conference at The Hague, the American government gave notice to Russia that it reserved the liberty proposed for consideration of the reduction or limitation of armaments, in the hope that, as expressed by Secretary Root, "if nothing further can be accomplished, some slight advance may be made toward the realization of the lofty conception which actuated the emperor of Russia in calling the first conference."

Chautauqua Being Planned.

Newnan, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Arrangements are being made here for an excellent Chautauqua to be held in June. Wayne P. Sewell, representing the Alkahest Lyceum bureau of Atlanta, which will furnish most of the attractions, has been here making the final arrangements. Indications now point to one of the most successful Chautauquas ever held here.

HON. POPE BROWN NOW TREASURER

State Treasury Is Open and Ready for Business.

Hon. J. Pope Brown, new state treasurer, yesterday completed the arrangements regarding his bond for $200,000 given the state, took the oath of office before Governor Smith and received his commission.

Mr. Brown went over at once and formally took charge of the treasury department. The auditing has been completed, everything found in proper shape, and the payment of state funds will be resumed today.

Mr. Brown announced that he proposed to retain in the department under his administration Assistant Ben F. Perry and others whom he found there. He acted, he said, on the presumption that they had been put there because they understood the business, and gave it prompt attention; therefore he considered they should be retained.

Just eleven days elapsed from the time of the death of State Treasurer Park, which closed the treasury so far as payments were concerned, until they were resumed.

University Visitors.

Hon. W. M. Harrell, of Bainbridge; Professor Sandy Beaver, Jr., of Stone Mountain; Professor N. H. Ballard, of Brunswick; Professor J. W. Farmer, of Louisville, and Hon. Malcolm Johnston, of Atlanta.

This board will visit the state university during commencement, in June, make an examination of the institution and report to the governor.

Asylum Investigation.

Hon. Seaton Grantland, of Griffin, was yesterday added to the commission appointed by Governor Smith to make an investigation of the charges which have been lodged against the state sanitarium at Milledgeville. Mr. Grantland is the business man on the commission. The other members are Judge Gray Lewis, of Greene county, and Dr. Willis F. Westmoreland, of Atlanta. The commission will probably undertake the work assigned to it within the next week or ten days.

Medical Instruction.

The war department has notified Adjutant General A. J. Scott that it will hold camps of medical instruction this year for the instruction of the medical officers attached to the national guard of the various states.

Medical officers of the Georgia troops will attend the camp of instruction to be held at Antietam, Va., July 29 to August 11. There are about fifteen medical officers attached to the Georgia militia, and General Scott believes that most of these will attend this gathering.

Respite for Jones.

Governor Smith yesterday granted a respite to Jim Jones, the negro sentenced to be hanged at Millen on May 28, for the murder of James Brown, until June 11. The respite was granted at the urgent request of attorneys for the condemned man, who stated that they had some affidavits presenting new testimony in his favor, and desired to present them for the governor's consideration.

Board of Lady Visitors.

Mrs. Sam D. Jones, of Atlanta, was yesterday named by Governor Smith as a member of the board of lady visitors to the Georgia Normal and Industrial college at Milledgeville. Mrs. Jones succeeds Miss Anne Wallace on the board for a term of three years, from September 29, 1908.

Reward Is Offered.

Governor Smith yesterday offered a reward of $100 for the arrest of Charles Reeves, a negro, who is wanted in Baldwin county for the murder of Hattie Brown on January 2 last.

SUMTER PEACH CROP WILL BE SHORT ONE

Orchards Around Americus Are Not in a Promising Condition.

Americus, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The peach crop prospect in many of the large orchards in the Americus territory is not nearly so promising as a few weeks ago. As the fruit assumes size it drops from the tree, and the ground in several big orchards here is covered with young peaches. Some disease, or possibly the last cold spell, has destroyed an otherwise fine prospect for a good crop.

One grower here has recently cut down a 50-acre peach orchard and is now planting the land in cotton. Railway representatives and others interested made a tour of orchards here the past week, and the consensus of opinion was that there would be very few peaches in the Americus territory, where the orchards contain more than a half million bearing peach trees.

MERCER LAW CLASS BUSY.

Course of Lectures Completed by Two Brilliant Addresses.

Mercer University, Macon, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Thursday evening Judge Emory Speer delivered the last of his interesting series of lectures to the law class of Mercer university in the federal court room. His topic was Lord Erskine.

Mr. Smith's lecture concludes the series to which the class has been treated during the year by various members of the Macon bar on topics of live interest to a young lawyer.

The law class is now steadying itself for the remaining examinations of the course. Forty-six young men are anxiously scanning the horizon for a glimpse of the fate which awaits them when these few remaining clouds have passed away, and it is thought that an equal number of diplomas will appear through the mists commencement day. The class is a good one, and the prospects are bright for these young students at the bar of justice. Meanwhile, the work draws to a close, and these young would-be lawyers are working hard on the home stretch, all still in the race for a diploma—the great Marathon grind which started last September.

MURDER CHARGE AGAINST BURGE

His Children Tell of Mother's Death.

Coroner's Jury Orders George Burge Held for Murder, and G. W. McCravey, Wife and Daughter Held Under Bond as Witnesses in Case.

The coroner's jury which met yesterday on the Howell Mill road at the residence of Mrs. Lovey May Burge, 35 years of age, killed shortly after midnight yesterday morning by a man supposed to be her husband, George Burge, a painter, while she slept in bed, recommended that Burge be held for the murder and that his cousin, G. W. McCravey, 35 years of age, and the latter's wife and little daughter, Mrs. Leola McCravey, aged 27 years, and Lillie May McCravey, 11 years of age, be held as witnesses.

Damaging evidence was offered at the inquest by Lieutenant Dunbar, of the county force, who caught Burge in bed at the McCravey boarding house, quite a distance from the residence of Mrs. Burge. This evidence was in the nature of a bloody shirt, which it is alleged belongs to Burge and which was found on the place. Burge was not asleep when the officers arrived. Bloodhounds put on the trail went in the direction of the McCravey home.

Lillie May Britton, 12 years of age, who was asleep in her step-mother's room at the time of the tragedy, said she was awakened by the screams of her mother and saw her father and mother engage in a struggle, in which the latter received her death wounds and fell down at the foot of the bed. She said her brother, Frank Britton, was then attacked and knocked his step-father down and chased him out of the house, after he had received a couple of stabs. She said she heard someone in the yard call out, "Come on, George, you've killed the whole family."

Lillie Britton, sixter of Frank, swore that Lillie May McCravey told her yesterday before the inquest that Burge left their house Sunday night about midnight and that her father got up about 1 o'clock and let him in. The McCravey girl denied this, stating that her father came home about 8 o'clock. She said her mother had told her to say "no" to all questions. This the mother denied.

Burge's cousin, McCravey, testified that Burge came to his house shortly after 8 o'clock and went to bed after reading a while.

An important witness for the prosecution was Frank Britton, 16 years of age, who stated that he awoke on feeling a stinging sensation on his neck and that he saw his step-father advancing on him with a knife. He said he hit Burge a lick in the breast, knocked him over a soap box and seizing a hatchet, chased him out of the house. "Fearing trouble," said Britton, "mother and I placed her bed against the door through which, I think, Mr. Burge must have come. He had threatened her life before. Only the night before we saw somebody stalking about the railroad yards at the front of the house, but the person went away without getting in."

Trouble Between Man and Wife.

At the inquest it was brought out that Burge and his wife, who was until two years ago Mrs. Britton, had had considerable trouble, since he is alleged to have beaten her, under which charge he was arrested and detained in the jail. Subsequently Mrs. Burge had her husband placed under bond to keep the peace and forbade him to enter her house.

The body of Mrs. Burge was placed in charge of Undertakers Greenberg, Bond & Bloomfield, where it is being held until the arrival of Mrs. Burge's father, W. J. Sikes; her sister, Miss Ivie Sikes, and her two brothers, Will and Alex Sikes, of Anniston, Ala. In addition to these relatives she is survived by her sons, Frank Britton and Leonard Burge, 15 months of age, and her two little daughters, Lillie May, aged 13, and Ida Beatrice, aged 5 years.

Reporters have not yet been allowed to see Burge, but it is understood he denies the charge of murder.

Washington, Ga., May 17.—(Special.) Washington has always borne the proud distinction of being one of the most cultured and intellectual centers of Georgia. Rev. Dr. Key, pastor of the First Baptist church, is president. Mr. John M. Cobart, vice president; Mr. George M. DuBose, vice president; Mr. W. A. Slaton, secretary and treasurer. The assembly the coming June will be held in a splendid new tent with a seating capacity of 1,800.

The Chautauqua sermon will be preached by Dr. J. S. French, of Atlanta, on Sunday, June 20. On Monday Senator "Bob" Taylor, of Tennessee, will give one of his inimitable lectures. Ross Crane, the unrivaled crayon artist and clay modeler, is on for two entertainments. Sidney Landon, the greatest character impersonator that has ever appeared in the south, will appear on this program and J. Lorenzo Zwickey, in his beautiful and unique entertainment, "The Philosophy of the Beautiful."

Miss Jeannette Kling, one of the most finished and artistic readers on the platform, has been engaged for the entire week, and also Miss Maud Manse, an accomplished soprano soloist. The Alkahest band and orchestra and the Otterbein male quartet and Bell Ringers have also been engaged for the entire week to furnish music for the occasion.

The foregoing are some of the leading attractions which will regale the people of our city and community with a week of rich and varied entertainment.

BACHELORS' CONVENTION NEXT BIG GATHERING

Simultaneous with the finishing of the new Auditorium, the Gate City has sprung into greater prominence as a convention city. The Telegraphers' Union is preparing to leave, the Best People on Earth are just arriving, and a backward or forward look shows a continuous panorama of gatherings of all sizes, character and conditions.

It has just recently been made known that a bachelors' convention will be held in Atlanta soon. It is known that the Grand opera house has been secured, beginning Monday, June 9, but beyond this no information is yet forthcoming.

It is not known who is in charge of the matter of making arrangements.

RIFLE WORK BY CADETS.

Range at University Has Been Put Into Splendid Shape.

Athens, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The university cadets are now being put through considerable practice in rifle work. The range has been put in good shape and a telephone line has been built across the Oconee river at that point. A boat has also been provided to carry the men to and from the range. The range is located on the western banks of the Oconee just beyond the agricultural hall and the men stand on the eastern side of the river and fire across that stream.

In this department of the military work of the cadets the commandant, Major Kimbrough, has brought the boys up to a high degree of efficiency. At commencement the military exercises promise to be the very best yet held in the university's history.

HOT MESSAGE FROM CLARK

Denies He Broke Laws as to Use of Free Transportation.

Tallahassee, Fla., May 17.—Speaker Farris had read to the house of representatives today a telegram from Hon. Frank Clark, congressman from the second district of Florida, in which he said:

"I denounced as unqualifiedly and basely false any intimidation by legislative committee or other person that I have violated any law in use of railroad transportation in Florida or elsewhere. I defy these people to institute proceedings here, there or anywhere. If they are honest and have proof, let them proceed. If they have not the proof they are not honest and dare not proceed."

One of the passes which the committee reported was annual pass No. 2267, issued January 1, 1906, and expired December 31, 1906, good for all points over the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad, to Frank Clark, congressman.

The telegram was referred to the judiciary committee, who now have under consideration the list of names reported by the special committee.

CALLED A JACK OF MAGNITUDE

Editorials Attacking Hollingsworth Read in House.

Representative Hollingsworth, Who Objects to Picture of Jefferson Davis, Had Biting Comments on His Course Read.

Washington, May 17.—"An ass of the first magnitude," "perhaps one of Sherman's bums, who robbed defenseless men and women;" "contemptible little whelp;" "a political nonentity from Ohio;" "a pale-faced luminary;" "a pusillanimous pigmy from Ohio," were some of the characterizations of Mr. Hollingsworth, of Ohio, in editorials which he had read in the house of representatives today as the basis of a question of privilege affecting his resolution recently offered, protesting against the portrait of Jefferson Davis on the silver service to be presented to the battleship Mississippi.

These editorials accused him of waiving the "bloody shirt," and appeared in the daily Clarion-Ledger, of Jackson, Miss., April 30; "The Southern Sentinel," Ripley, Miss., May 6; The Shreveport Caucasian, Shreveport, La., May 4, and one other paper, name not given.

The reading of the editorials caused considerable commotion and at times moved the members to great laughter.

Later, Messrs. Bartlett, of Georgia, and Fitzgerald, of New York, objected to further "lumbering" up the record, and demanded that the speaker rule on the question of privilege.

In an elaborate opinion, Speaker Cannon held that Mr. Hollingsworth had not been attacked in his representative capacity, and he was not permitted to proceed further.

Later, Mr. Hollingsworth sought unanimous consent, first, to print a speech on the subject, or else to address the house for thirty minutes.

Mr. Harrison, of New York, objected, whereupon Mr. Hollingsworth wanted the speaker to tell him why the objection was made.

"The chair cannot tell," said the speaker suavely, "what moved the gentleman to object, because he is not a mind reader." This sally convulsed the house with laughter.

Interest in the proceeding was heightened by the fact that Mr. Harrison's father, Burton Harrison, was secretary to Jefferson Davis during four years of the war.

FARMER ASSAULTED BY NEGRO LABORER

Fearful Blows Are Received by Clifford Morgan While at Work in Field.

Americus, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Clifford Morgan, a prominent young farmer residing near Americus, was murderously assassinated in his field this afternoon by Dick Daniels, a negro laborer. Morgan reprimanded Daniel's wife regarding her work, whereupon Daniels slipped up behind him and dealt Morgan two fearful blows upon the head with his hoe, afterwards escaping. The wounds are considered very serious.

THREAT BY NIGHT RIDERS

Found on the Tobacco Bed of Large Kentucky Planter.

Hopkinsville, Ky., May 17.—Elbridge C. Carey, a prominent Christian county planter, early today discovered the following note stuck in a corner of his plant bed:

"Mr. Carey, don't you bother this plant bed; if you do, we will come to see you, sure."

(Signed) "NIGHT RIDERS.
"Eight Thousand."

A man named Arnold, who lives on an adjoining farm, found a similar threat. Mr. Carey telephoned the sheriff, who advised him to go ahead and plant his tobacco, but he will take no chances, and will plant his ground in corn.

About three weeks ago Carey lost fourteen head of cattle, which he thinks were poisoned by the same parties who posted the notes. Carey is an association man.

BODY OF DROWNED MAN FOUND IN REMARKABLE WAY

Columbus, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—The body of Brady Grooms, a young man who was drowned yesterday while bathing in the Chattahoochee river, has been recovered in a rather remarkable manner.

After the divers had searched in vain, the father was told that if he would toss one of his son's garments in the stream it would sink immediately over the spot where the body lay. The experiment was tried with his shirt, which drifted down the river for some distance close to the bank and then turned and went a short distance out in the stream. Arrived at a certain point, the shirt circled around several times and then sank. A diver followed it, and found Groom's body with the shirt clinging closely to his legs.

Negro Cutting Scrape.

West Point, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—On returning from sitting up with a corpse last night, Effie Wise was met near her home in Lanette by Mary Boon, who ran up behind with a razor and cut her throat, causing death in a few minutes. Mary Boon was captured this morning and placed in jail. She doesn't know why she committed the deed.

Miss Berry's Visit.

An inspiration to women with projects, should be the work and success of Miss Martha Berry, the founder of the school in Rome, Ga., for mountain boys, for the endowment of which Mrs. Russell Sage and Andrew Carnegie have given $50,000. The same amount must be raised by Miss Berry to complete the necessary endowment of $100,000.

Nothing daunted by the task, Miss Berry was in Atlanta Wednesday, planning for a campaign through which she hopes to raise the money.

One of a group of sisters noted for their beauty and charms, she determined to devote her spare time to helping the mountain boys in that section of north Georgia, near which is Rome. Her sisters are Mrs. Allen, of Rome, Ga.; Mrs. Bulow Campbell and Mrs. Alex Bonneyman, of Atlanta, and the Princess Raspoli, of Rome, Italy.

Although Miss Berry has received the most generous cooperation from friends in the north, who send her money annually for the maintenance of her school, there is no organized effort back of her in her native state.

Here is an opportunity for the young society women of the state to get back of the representative of their number and help her in a movement of unlimited value.

The wasted efficiency of the well-to-do woman, is a subject which presents itself every day, and although the society woman does spurts of charity work, and that ably, there are not many of the younger women who do any organized or continuous work in which they could become seriously interested.

It would be interesting, therefore, to see on the part of the young women of the unmarried set some organized effort in the direction of concentrated work for an institution which has been founded by a young Georgia woman, and which in the call it meets in the education of the rural boy is attracting a national recognition.

Coaching Party.

Colonel and Mrs. Robert J. Lowry entertained at a coaching party yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Jane Meldrim, of Savannah, the guest of Miss Anne Orme. The party met at the Aragon, and drove first to the baseball park, where they witnessed the game. Later, they assembled on the terrace at the Piedmont Driving Club, where delicious refreshments were served, and the party were delightfully entertained. They were: Misses Jane Meldrim, Anne Orme, Harriet Calhoun, Sarah Rawson, Jennie Hutchins; Messrs. Beverly DuBose, Wimberly Peters, Wayne Patterson, Dixon McCarty.

Final Concerts.

The first of the three closing concerts of Klindworth Conservatory will be given tonight at 8 o'clock at Ludden & Bates' music hall, 63 Peachtree street. No admission. Anybody welcome.

Those taking part will be Misses Simon, Bradfield, Senta Mueller, Leta Puckett, Gretel Mueller, Bessie Ezell, Harry Schlesinger, Lucile Moore, Agnes Williams, Mrs. W. M. Gill, Misses Nettie Sampson, Ruth Rodgers, Lillie Howard, Annie Pearce Barnes, Mr. Herman Yoder, Misses Louise Parker, Dora Anderson, Mildred Bradfield, Gradie Brooke, Wera Simon, and in a final number for eight hands will be Misses Simon, Woodward, Mau and Brooke.

The other two recitals will take place Wednesday and Thursday nights at 8 o'clock.

The Ladies of Epiphany.

The ladies of Epiphany Guild, Inman Park, will give an ice cream and strawberry festival today from 5 to 9 o'clock p. m. on Mrs. Dr. Moreland's lawn, Moreland avenue, between Austin and McLendon avenues.

Bridge Party.

Miss Emma B. Sharpe entertained informally at bridge Tuesday morning in honor of Miss Rosa Gibbes, of Savannah, and Miss Anita Dessessaure, of Charleston, who are the guests of Miss Susie Owens.

The prizes, a Venetian glass pin tray and a silver pencil, were won by Miss Susie Owens and Mrs. J. S. Barnes, and the honor guests were presented corsage bouquets of white sweet peas tied with green moire ribbon. The score cards were handpainted in four-leaf clover and the scheme of green and white was carried out in white peonies and sweet peas arranged in vases on bookcases and mantels.

Each table from which refreshments were served had as a centerpiece a green vase filled with sweet peas and the salad was served in boxes made of crackers tied with green satin ribbon, while the tall stemmed glasses used for the ice cream were tied with green tulle bows.

Miss Sharpe wore a light blue gown, Miss Gibbes and Miss Decaussure wore pretty blue costumes. Miss Susie Owens wore a mauve-colored gown.

Graduating Recital.

The graduating recital of Miss Edith Louise Brown, of Chattanooga, Tenn., was the event which filled the chapel of Agnes Scott college on Saturday evening with friends from Atlanta and Decatur.

Miss Brown is completing her third year at Agnes Scott and her rendition of her program was abundant evidence to all who heard it that her time in music has been well spent. The entire program was given in a finished manner, the player showing great intelligence in interpretation with unusual technique. It is probable that in the Bach and McDowell numbers she made her greatest successes, the force, fire and intelligent shading of her interpretation calling forth enthusiastic applause. Great credit is due not only to the student, but also to Miss MacGregor, who has been her instructor for the past three years.

At Agnes Scott.

Commencement exercises at Agnes Scott begin Thursday and continuing through next Wednesday morning, will provide a series of interesting occasions.

On Thursday and Friday, May 20 and 21, 4 to 6 p. m., will be the art exhibit.

On Saturday, May 22, 8:30 p. m. will be voice recital.

On Sunday, May 23, 11 a. m., a baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Rev. James I. Vance, D.D.

On Monday, May 24, 8:30 p. m. will be the Glee Club concert.

On Tuesday, May 25, 8:30 p. m., will be the delivery of Shonts prize.

On Wednesday, May 26, 10 a. m., will be the regular commencement exercises.

The art exhibit on Thursday and Friday, under the auspices of Miss Lewis, who is at the head of the department, will be a revelation in the quality of the work it displays. The Shonts prize evening is the time of greatest excitement, and indeed every feature will be worthy attention.

Graduating Class Exercises.

An event of peculiar interest to many will be the final exercises of the Agnes Scott academy, which will be held in the college chapel on Friday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. This is the first graduating class exercise ever held by the academy, students who have finished the course in past years having been given merely certificates of admission to Agnes Scott or some other college, so that Friday afternoon will mark a distinct forward step in the development of this most excellent school. The large local patronage will insure a full house.

The program will be an exceedingly interesting one, from the musical as well as from the literary standpoint. The address of the occasion will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. Ogden, of the Central Presbyterian church, on the unique subject, "The Morality of Mathematics."

Meetings.

The Gordon circle of the King's Daughters and Sons will meet at the Home for Old Women, 61 West End avenue, Wednesday, May 19, at 3 p. m. All active members are requested to be present. Members of the order who are visiting in the city are cordially invited to attend.

McCandliss-King.

Dr. Frances McCandliss announces the engagement of her daughter, Edythe Frances, to Mr. Leon Major King, of Knoxville, the marriage to take place June 15 at the First Methodist church.

Bowling Party.

Mr. and Mrs. James T. Williams will give a bowling party Friday night at the Driving Club in compliment to Mrs. Floyd Furlow, of Mont Clair, N. J., the guest of Mrs. William F. Spalding.

To Mrs. Strupper.

Mrs. Ben Watkins will entertain at a bowling party Saturday morning at East Lake in compliment to Mrs. C. C. McGehee's guest, Mrs. Strupper, of Columbus.

Y. W. C. A. Notes.

Many people probably do not know that the Young Women's Christian Association conducts an employment bureau, charging no fee, either to employer or employee. Ladies who have sewing to give out or who wish help in their homes, and business firms having positions open for stenographers, bookkeepers or workers of any kind, are asked to notify the association, so that it may help the women who come to it asking for employment.

The membership contest is going somewhat slowly, but a considerable increase is expected before the end of the month. At the close of the contest, a membership party will be given by the board of managers. Watch for the date and plan to be one of the fortunate ones to be invited.

The dining room served an average of 333 per day during April, besides those classes having supper in the dining room and those who were served in the tea room.

The S. I. S. P. Club will give a play, entitled "When Patty Went to College," on the evening of May 29, the proceeds to be used in sending delegates to the Southern Conference of Young Women's Christian Associations, held at Asheville, N. C., June 12 to 21. Attendance upon this conference is not limited to association members, and any woman who finds it possible to attend will have one of the greatest experiences of her life. Further information regarding it may be obtained at the office of the association.

Leghorn Hats for Four Dollars

They're just in—and beauties.

Everyone who sees them thinks them quite wonderful values, and they're going to be a tremendous take, we know.

You see it isn't often you can get a great big handsome, generous, flexible, genuine Leghorn at such a price as four dollars.

And it isn't often that the opportunity comes just when it is most coveted, as does this one, with the summer stretching ahead and the need for such a hat at its full.

There are big Leghorns and small ones in this lot. Some are mushroomy, others are the wide-brimmed kind with a very smart side turn-up.

Others are of medium size and still others are small.

The shapes are eminently desirable, and women who like to emphasize quality and distinctiveness in their headwear will be quite charmed by these.

And then the price—it's less than we have been paying at wholesale ourselves for hats of such quality—four dollars.

Then here are quantities of fresh, new midsummer flowers. We haven't shown them before. How could we—they're just in.

We are evolving some very stunning hats these days from these new materials. And we've a hundred brand-new ideas to exploit for you.

LARGE ATTENDANCE FOR SUMMER SCHOOL

Many Georgia Teachers to Take the Course.

University of Georgia Summer School Officials Are Being Swamped With Letters From All Parts of the State.

Athens, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Considerable interest is being manifested in the approaching session of the University of Georgia summer school. Superintendent Woofter has sent out a large amount of advertising matter, and is getting many letters daily now making inquiry about the school. The indications point to a very large attendance upon this institution. County School Commissioner Collins, of Early county, has written stating that the board of education of that county will pay the traveling expenses of the teachers of the county to attend the school and quite a number of Early county teachers will be in attendance.

County School Commissioner Hartley, of Crawford county, has written that his county will also pay the traveling expenses of its teachers to the summer school, and a large number will come from that county. County School Commissioner Ridley, of Pike county, says his board of education will pay the entrance fees of all Pike county teachers attending.

Other commissioners are reporting that large numbers of their teachers will be here. It is expected that the attendance this summer will reach five hundred.

DANIEL WATER

For Indigestion

Indigestion is often the result of a catarrhal condition of the stomach. The gastric juice, which is the natural digestive fluid, is vitiated and unhealthy, and its power to mix and dissolve food greatly lessened because of the destruction of the bodily sulphates by the catarrhal mucus.

Daniel Water contains a large percentage of sulphates and mineral alkalies, which are most beneficial in all catarrhal conditions of the stomach. It neutralizes the excess of stomach acids, removes the mucus from the glands, and thus prevents fermentation and gaseous accumulations in the stomach and bowels. Daniel Water contributes the proper ingredients to the gastric juice, and in this way promotes a natural and healthy digestion. It is also a natural laxative and diuretic. Price 10c. per gal. at the spring. Daniel Mineral Water Co., Union Point, Ga.

$2,000,000 WILL SAID TO BE MISSING

Investigations May Prove That Rich Texas Man Was Poisoned.

Houston, Tex., May 17.—P. R. Tilson, state and government chemist, has made an examination of the port wine found in the office of Hon. John Kennedy, who was found in his office in a dying condition March 13. A report on the examination has been sent to Galveston to John Kennedy, Jr., and is believed to show that the wine contained carbolic acid.

Young Kennedy will make a report, and the investigation will be the basis of a legal battle to recover a portion of the estate of the deceased valued at $2,000,000. A will, said to have existed leaving all of the property in charge of Mrs. Kennedy until her death, is missing. A double secret inquiry has been in progress here for some time.

The dead man served several terms in the state legislature, and was a prominent local politician. It is said sensational evidence will develop in the courts when the case comes up for trial.

The application was made on blanks such as had been legal prior to the enforcement of the prohibition laws and was signed by twenty-nine free-holders. The court, in denying the application, said it was in accordance with provisions of the code in issuance of licenses, but the court refused the petition on account of the prohibition law.

HELD FOR MURDER, SHE LOOKS TO GOD

God Will Be My Attorney, Says Handsome Girl.

Louise Arbogast, 19 Years of Age, Is Arrested for Killing Her Wealthy Father — It Is Believed She Is Insane.

St. Paul, Minn., May 17.—Louise Arbogast, aged 22, was today formally charged in police court with the murder of Louis Arbogast, her father. The girl, who is a handsome brunette and well known among a large number of German residents of St. Paul, was committed to the county jail, and her hearing was set for May 20. It is believed the girl's defense will be insanity, and that this defense may prevail, as her demeanor for some time past indicated that she was suffering from delusions.

Louis Arbogast, a wealthy meat dealer and a prominent German resident, was found dead on his bed early last Thursday morning. His head had been crushed in with an ax, and the bed was soaked with kerosene oil and on fire.

Mrs. Arbogast, the mother of Louise, was found unconscious beside her husband, and dragged from the burning bed by another daughter, Ida.

Mrs. Arbogast is now in the city hospital suffering from burns.

Investigation by the police and others to develop a motive for the crime, led to the conclusion that it was the act of an insane person. Facts developed by the investigation disclosed that Louise Arbogast had been the victim of fortune tellers, who told her that a man would break into her home and attack her.

She heard this statement so often that it is believed to have become a delusion that a man was actually pursuing her.

After the reading of the warrant, Judge Hanft informed Miss Arbogast that she would not be required to plead until she had secured an attorney.

"God will be my attorney," she exclaimed. "I did not harm my father." Then turning to Prosecutor Doran she stretched out both arms to him.

"Mr. Doran, please, Mr. Doran, you've known me a long time, and I've done no wrong. Do I need an attorney?"

"No, you don't," said the prosecutor as he turned away, because he could not look at her. A formal plea of not guilty was entered.

PIG-STY OR COTTON FIELD.

The old Mosaic Laws forbade the use of pork in any form, and modern science has confirmed the wisdom of the patriarch in making this Law. The flesh of the hog is indigestible; so is the fat. Food prepared with lard is unwholesome. To meet the demand for a cooking fat that is pure and easily digested, The N. K. Fairbank Company, Chicago, have put on the market a shortening called COTTOLENE, made from refined vegetable oil. This cooking fat can be used in any and every way that lard now is, and can even be used in place of butter in making fine pastry. Contrast the source of lard—the filthy pig-sty, with the source of COTTOLENE—the pure, white cotton boll, and one can readily understand the great demand for this pure, vegetable shortening in preference to the fat of the hog.

SPECIALISTS ADDRESS CONGRESS OF MOTHERS

That the child's life be better systematized at home and less work left for the teacher to do, was one of the timely suggestions made by Professor William F. Slaton in an able address made at the city division of the Mothers' Congress, held in the Methodist church yesterday afternoon.

That the physical welfare of the child be more intelligently taken in hand and that no child be permitted to partake of alcoholic drink, tea, coffee or coca-cola were among the practical suggestions made by Dr. Alexander S. Stirling, in a scholarly address.

That there be a closer study by the individual mother of her own child and then a closer relation between the mother and the teacher were among the wise admonitions of Miss Celeste Parrish, of the Peabody Practice school, Athens, when she spoke.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. James R. Little, of the Atlanta Congress of Mothers, and the specific purpose of the meeting was to plan the organization of mothers' clubs to help the public schools of the city.

Professor Slaton was the first speaker, and he heartily commended the movement, out of which he prophesied there would grow a more complete and cordial understanding between parent and teacher. The teachers represented one great force, the parents another, both working for the same end—the child—and unless both forces worked together harmoniously, the child was the sufferer.

He stressed the fact that all education must have as its basic principle the building up of character, and that the teacher assumed her task in this building seven years after the work of the mother had begun, and that unless the primary work had been efficiently done, the most superior teacher was at a disadvantage with that particular child.

He emphasized the fact also that the mother's obligation increased rather than diminished, when the child began its training with the teacher, for unless the work of the school was supplemented in the home, the child's training was of superficial significance.

The time and energies of the child should be systematized in the home. There should be the time for study and the time for play, and nothing should interfere with the child's regular hours. When these rules held in a home, he declared, there was rarely friction between the parent and teacher.

Same Rule for All.

He called attention to the fact that, severe as it might seem in individual cases, that school laws, like all other laws, were made for all and not to fit exceptions. Therefore, the child who was withdrawn several weeks before the close of the term to go to the seaside or the mountains, could not expect special consideration when, at the beginning of next term, the teacher could not keep back the fifty children who had remained until the end of the term, to instruct the few who were behind.

He believed that the proposed movement to bring closer together in organization the mother and the teacher would result in a great benefit to the child and to the community.

Dr. Stirling's Address.

The tendency of the address of Dr. Alexander Stirling was to stress the responsibility of the mother at all times in the child's life, not only in the home, but in the school, while he emphasized the physical welfare as so integral a part of the mental and moral development as to make the two latter forces of the being dependent for their right development primarily on the well-ordered body.

Sleep, open air, normal play and the right diet were the things to be considered in the life of the normal child. He advocated sleep in the open air as one of the things we were growing to, and admonished the mothers present to prohibit their children drinking not only alcoholic beverages, but tea, coffee and [illegible]. He encouraged school athletics of normal kind, and advocated military discipline for boys, and a similar training for girls. He emphasized the importance of periodical physical examinations for school children, and believed that the proposed organization of mothers and teachers would be a great force making for a better development of the child.

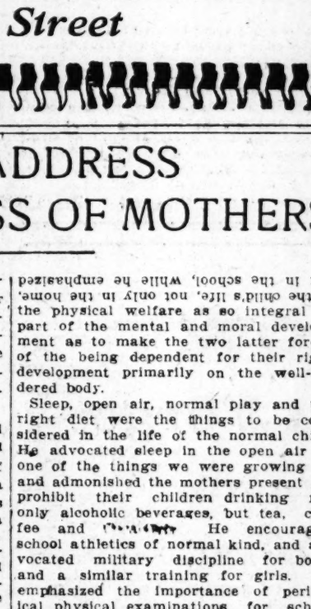

Miss Parrish Talks.

Miss Parrish talked from the standpoint of the teacher, and eloquently pleaded with the mothers present to unite with the teachers in bringing about a more rational educational system for the child. She did not argue for a revolution of the present system, she said, but a more rapid evolution. She believed that the school hours were too long, and that the present system did not nearly enough co-relate the child's training with the more vital things around him. She believed that the knowledge which made him the more serviceable was that acquired through his ability to relate his knowledge as he acquired it to the things around him, and that books were mediums of reference, rather than the principal sources from which knowledge was drawn.

What she said pointed directly to the necessity of the teacher being not only the well trained person, but one thoroughly familiar with the psychology of the child. The obligation of the mother that she might the more fully direct her child's life and cooperate with the teacher, was the study of the child in all its instincts.

Miss Parrish recalled the remarks of Dr. Stirling relative to the necessary physical development of the child and the necessary out-of-door life.

She believed that college athletics, for both men and women, should not be confined to pastimes that reduced the sports to teams who represented the sport of the student body, but that there should be a system of athletics which included every boy and girl of the institution. Such games, she said, were being inaugurated in England.

YOUNG WOMAN JUMPS FROM MOVING TRAIN

Miss E. Boone, of Toombsboro, Badly Hurt.

While in Dazed Condition the Young Woman Steps Off a Train Near Her Home Town. Unable to Recall the Act.

Brown House, Macon, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Miss E. Boone, daughter of a prominent Toombsboro merchant, deliberately jumped from a Central train late yesterday afternoon as she was nearing her home, and when she was picked up by Conductor A. M. Brannan and members of the train crew, a leg was found to be broken, and her head and body were severely bruised. Miss Boone had been noticed as she passed up and down the aisle of the car in a nervous condition, and when she went to the steps, the conductor followed and grabbed at her too late to save her.

When the train was stopped she was picked up and carried on to her home. Dr. Hodges, a physician, was called, and she was given relief. He announced that she would recover from her injuries.

When she regained consciousness, she was surprised to know how she had sustained her injuries. She seemed to be totally unable to recall her act.

Annual Cut in Tariff Proposed.

Washington, May 17.—A reduction of custom duties 5 per cent annually is proposed by Senator Owen, in an amendment to the tariff bill offered by him in the senate today. The amendment proposes that this reduction be made annually until a lessened revenue from each article is shown and in such a case the president is authorized to fix the duty at a rate that he believes will produce the greatest revenue.

So Mr. Von Herrmann Thinks in Spite of Washington Forecast of Rain.

Forecast for today: Fair and warm, light easterly winds. Despite the fact that the Washington forecaster predicts rain for Georgia today, C. F. The place will be entirely in the hands of the ladies, and some of the prettiest girls in town will be on the job with the tickets and at the soda stands. Don't you think a trip out would be worth while! The answer is, "Yes—when the temperature goes to 82 degrees."

CASTRO'S MONEY TAKEN BY COURT

Heavy Judgment Given Against Exiled Dictator.

He Must Pay Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars to Senora Crespo for Arbitrary Occupation of the Palace of Miraflores.

Caracas, Saturday, May 8.—The first of many judgments which will be pronounced by the Venezuelan courts against former President Castro was rendered this week by Judge Farreras, of the civil court of first instance. It was in the suit instituted against the deposed president by Senora Joaquin Crespo, widow of a former president, for six years' rental and heavy damages for the arbitrary occupation of Castro of the Miraflores palace in this city, which is the property of Senora Crespo.

A verdict for the full amount was given, and, as the judgment condemned the defendant to meet the cost of the trial, the whole affair will cost General Castro hundreds of thousands of dollars. Judge Farreras said, in rendering his decision:

"Because of the reasons enumerated, and administering justice in the name of the republic and by the authority of the law, I declare the action valid for the recovery of the damages arising from the occupation of Miraflores palace, luxuriously furnished, for the period of five years and nine months, and for the damages arising from the deterioration specified, and in consequence General Cipriano Castro is condemned to pay the damages and prejudices aforesaid in accordance with a just appraisement by experts. The experts should take as a basis for damages the following facts:

"1. The rental of $400 per month paid by General Gomez for the palace unfurnished.

"2. General Castro not only enjoyed the use of the palace, but also of the luxurious furniture contained therein.

"3. The invasion of Miraflores palace by General Castro compelled Senora Crespo first to take refuge in a small house adjacent to the palace, and later on to disoccupy it entirely.

"4. The amount spent on repairs to the palace so as to make it habitable for General Gomez, taking into consideration that these repairs were not made in accordance with the luxury of the palace, and that they did not restore it to its former condition.

"5. Other deteriorations specified in conclusion.

"6. The damage done to the furniture which General Castro found in Miraflores, because of the long and excessive use made of it, and taking into account their elegance and costliness, and the perfect condition in which they were found.

"The defendant is condemned to pay the costs of this trial."

Confirmed by the Senate.

TELFAIR COUNTY A GARDEN SPOT

McRae, the County Seat, Has Population of 2,000 and Is One of State's Most Progressive Municipalities — Two Strong Banks.

By Eugene Ray.

McRae, Ga., May 17.—(Special.)—Telfair county is old—"old as the hills." It is gray-headed, it is so old. Old North Georgia counties turned gray, and were gray a long time, but now they are red-headed. Old Telfair was gray-headed, but how she is black-headed in places; her soil may be gray still in places and is black in other places, but nowhere is she red-headed.

Telfair is a centenarian, having been "laid out by act of the legislature December 10, 1807." She gets her name from Edward Telfair, one of the state's celebrities who had been governor of Georgia. Old as Telfair is, she is jus tnow in her prime. She is fresh and pretty and does not look to be more than eighteen. She has been well preserved; she has been well preserved because much of it is yet untouched by the farmer.

There are farmers in Telfair county —successful farmers—but there are many, many acres, many square miles that await the husbandman. It was once noted for its pine timber; now it is noted for its agricultural products and its stockraising. Indeed, Telfair is known as one of the leading agricultural counties, not merely of south Georgia, but of all the state. A county whose farmers make as much as 95 bushels of corn to the acre, or 85 bushels to the acre, or 87 bushels on as much as nine acres, and 40 bushels to the acre on a field of ten acres, deserves to be classed as one of the best agricultural counties of all the state. It hardly seems possible that such a county would tolerate the shipment into it of either corn or meat. A county that has a farmer who makes 2,536 pounds of lint cotton on 2½ acres, will be known as a leading agricultural county. Telfair has farmers who have made such crops of corn and cotton as those indicated above.

Great Cotton Country.

Telfair county's lands are undulating, rather hilly, except in the swamp of the Ocmulgee. It is a great stock, cattle and hog country, and the raising of these, along with the lumber business, was for years considered about all that could be done. But the thrifty farmer came and took a hand, and now the whole thing has been changed. All that is lacking is some more thrifty farmers.

McRae is the capital of Telfair county, and its growth and prosperity indicate what the growth and prosperity of the county is. It is one of the twins, Helena being the other. It is advantageously situated, being on the Southern and Seaboard railways, about a hundred miles north of Brunswick and about the same distance west of Savannah. Forty years ago the Macon and Brunswick railroad (now the Southern) was built and a station located there which was named McRae in honor of the well-known and prominent family by that name that lived there then and lives there still. Jacksonville was the county seat of Telfair and had been for almost three-quarters of a century, but McRae grew so well and did so well the county seat was moved to it soon after McRae became a town.

Two Thousand Population.

McRae now has a population of 2,000 or more, having doubled its population in the last seven years. There is probably no better market town in south Georgia than McRae. The business men here are certainly up-to-date as well as very clever. When one comes to know these people, he wonders if the town do not take the liberty to select the class of people it would have as citizens.

Practically every religious denomination of the country has a church here. The Baptists have a $15,000 church that would be a credit to any Georgia city. The Primitive Baptists have a nice church located in Helena but near the line between the two towns. This south Georgia college of the Methodist church is the pride of this whole country. It is in McRae near the Helena line. It has a half a thousand pupils. The town's electric light plant and waterworks are wholly modern. Its artesian water is beautiful and abundant. Telfair's court house at McRae is a new $50,000 building. The Farmers' Union warehouse is in Helena, C. W. Stewart, manager. Andrew McRae has the McRae warehouse.

Two Strong Banks.

The town has two banks. The Citizens' bank, J. F. Cook, president and cashier, began business in 1901 with a capital of $25,000. Its capital has since been increased to $50,000. The Merchants' bank was established in 1897. Mr. H. P. Whiddon is cashier. The last statements of these banks are such as to be gratifying to their stockholders and a credit to their officers.

It would require a page of a newspaper to enumerate the business houses of McRae. It has its wholesale grocery house, two hardware stores, Folsom & Tillman and the Wilcox Hardware Compahy. Then there are those leading merchants, James L. Wilcox & Co., dealers in general merchandise; Girffith & Ellis, W. B. Folsom, A. L. Ryals, Ryals Drug Company., D. R. Dekle, jeweler, and others. McRae has numerous professional men of note, lawyers, physicians and dentists. E. D. Graham, the solicitor general of this judicial circuit, lives in McRae. Tom Eason, who has honorably held several honorable positions lives here.

O. F. McRae, with his newspaper, The Telfair Enterprise, has the thanks of his people for his enterprise. His Centennial edition, issued in 1907, was a marvel of enterprise. It contained almost fifty pages, and included a complete history of the county, the towns of the county and the various enterprises and business of the county.

The work of the McRae-Helena Telephone Company, W. D. Horton, manager, gives some idea as to the enterprise of the people of Telfair county. In 1901 Mr. Horton began business with 50 telephones. Today he has 200 miles of farmers' line with 150 'phones in farmers' houses. He has in McRae and Helena 240 telephones. He has an exchange at Lumber City and is building a line from there to Jacksonville. The people of McRae boast of their high-class country citizenship—of the intelligence and culture of the farmers of Telfair county. The Cobbville comunity and others are especially noted for their high-class citizenship.

Health Conditions Splendid.

McRae boasts of good health. The town is in the hills and is high and dry. The only vacant house in town is the building that was occupied by the undertaker. There's the house—there is the name, "John Jones & Co., undertakers." They have gone out of business.

The Death of Pope Hill.

McRae has recently had a little unpleasant notoriety. A resident of another city chooses McRae as a good town to die in and he goes there and takes his own life. A report is circulated that he was murdered and was murdered because he happened to be one of the attorneys, representing the Dodge estate, which consists of thousands of acres of Telfair's valuable lands. It was published to the world that quite a number of the county's citizens had settled on lots of this land belonging to the Dodge estate; that they were "squatters" and thieves and murderers; that they had murdered a number of the agents of this estate, and that their purpose has been to get lots of this land without paying for them.

The whole story was a mistake. In the first place, this lawyer, representing the Dodge estate, was not murdered, but committed suicide. Nobody wanted to murder him; there is not any murderous feeling between Dodge's representtives and the people of Telfair. Mr. R. Oberly, representing the Dodge estate at McRae, has as many friends in Telfair as any other man. There were ten suits pending in the superior court in favor of Dodge; all but four had been settled before Mr. Hill, the Dodge lawyer, killed himself. If Mr. Hill had lived these four would, no doubt, have been settled at the last term of the court. One of the four was passed for settlement. There has not been a suit filed by Dodge in two years. The homicides growing out of any disputes between Dodge and the people of Telfair county have been chiefly cases in which Dodge's representatives have killed Telfair citizens. These are facts given me by McRae's most honorable citizens.

CLEARS THE COMPLEXION OVERNIGHT

Since its discovery one year ago, poslam, the new skin remedy, has, in its extraordinary accomplishments, exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the eminent specialist who gave it to the world. It has cured thousands of cases of eczema and eradicated facial and other disfigurements of years' standing. The terrible itching attending eczema is stopped with the first application, giving proof of its curative properties at the very outset.

In less serious skin affections, such as pimples, rash, herpes, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, etc., results show after an overnight application, only a small quantity being required to effect a cure. Those who use poslam for these minor skin troubles can now avail themselves of the special 50-cent package, recently adopted to meet such needs. Both the 50-cent package and the regular $2 jar may now be obtained in Atlanta at Jacobs' Pharmacy, Brannen's drug store and other leading drug stores.

Samples for experimental purposes may be had free of charge by writing direct to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York City.

"The Road to Wellville" Pointed the Way.

Down at Hot Springs, Ark. the visitors have all sorts of complaints, but it is a subject of remark that the great majority of them have some trouble with stomach and bowels. This may be partly attributed to the heavy medicines.

Naturally, under the conditions, the question of food is very prominent.

A young man states that he had suffered for nine years from stomach and bowel trouble, had two operations which did not cure, and was at last threatened with appendicitis.

He went to Hot Springs for rheumatism and his stomach trouble got worse. One day at breakfast the waiter, knowing his condition, suggested he try Grape-Nuts and cream, which he did, and found the food agreed with him perfectly.

After the second day he began to sleep peacefully at night, different than he had for years. The perfect digestion of the food quieted his nervous system and made sleep possible.

He says: "The next morning I was astonished to find my condition of constipation had disappeared. I could not believe it true after suffering for so many years; then I took more interest in the food, read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," and started following the simple directions.

"I have met with such results that in the last five weeks I have gained eight pounds in spite of hot baths which take away the flesh from anyone.

"A friend of mine has been entirety cured of a bad case of indigestion and stomach trouble by using Grape-Nuts Food and cream alone for breakfast.

"There is one thing in particular—I have noticed a great change in my mental condition. Formerly I could hardly remember anything, and now the mind seems unusually acute and retentive. I can memorise practically anything I desire."

They are ideal summer dresses and when you look at them, handling them criticically, you will agree that we don't say a word too much in their favor when we tell you that they are the prettiest dresses of their class that have traveled Atlantaward this season.

They are in the popular one-piece style and in a variety that insures you against embarrassing uniformity of style. They are trimmed with lace and embroidery, and are as pretty and effective dresses as you could devise had you your choice of fabrics and the uninterrupted service of a clever dress-maker.

These have been selling at $11.75 and $12.50 and are good values at that. So you'll be surprised to find them marked for today at $8.75.

Quality Silk Dresses When you can buy a silk dress of pongee, messaline, foulard or rajah that is a good looking; prettily made, becoming dress and in just the style of the current season, with a third or a half snipt off its regular price, the thing to do is—buy it.

That's the situation in this group of dresses.

There are too many styles to detail. It must suffice to say that there is no little trick of the fashion, no device to prettify a frock, to make it more graceful and becoming, that has been omitted from these dresses. They are just as attractive as they can possibly be. One-piece models, of course. Everything is one-piece this season. Some of them are cut with the quaint colonial or Dutch neck, so favored by the white-throated woman. There's a pongee model, for instance, fashioned on the simplest lines and trimmed only with natural colored lace the same shade as the frock. It looks a good $30 worth. And it is. So are they all.

In this lot are dresses that were $20, $22.50, $25, $29.75 and $31.75. Today you may have any you like for $15.

SPORTS

LITTLE ROCK LEADS LEAGUE

EDITED BY DICK JEMISON

FINAL ROUND BRINGS VICTORY

Crackers Win First Game From Gulls 2 to 1.

Johns and Stockdale Have a Pitchers' Battle — Two Hit Batsmen, Two Stolen Bases and Two Wild Heaves Win Out in the Ninth.

That it pays to keep fighting until the last man is out in the ninth inning was demonstrated at Ponce de Leon yesterday when the Crackers won the first game of the series from the Gulls in the final round by the score of 2 to 1.

It was a very pretty game from several standpoints. Several pretty pieces of fielding were exhibited, while it is doubtful if there has been a better pitchers' battle at Ponce de Leon since the opening of that park.

Johns was in the box for the Crackers, and the little left-hander was in great form, allowing the Gulls but two hits. He was unfortunate to walk the first man up, and a fielder's choice, a sacrifice and an infield out sent in the one run that the Gulls obtained. He struck out five men and walked four.

Stockdale was in the box for the Gulls, and the "Old Gray Fox" was at his best. He fanned four Crackers and allowed but four hits, and if he had not hit Winters and Smith in the final round, which was followed by a blow-up by his teammates, he would have gotten away with the game.

There were several pretty pieces of fielding on the part of both teams, and, with the pitchers going as strong as they were, there was nothing doing in the hitting line.

The Gulls were the first to score. Sentell, the first man up, was walked. Benson hit to Johns, who threw too late to second to catch Sentell, and both men were safe. Rhoton's sacrifice moved them both up a base, and on Thornton's infield out Sentell scored.

The Crackers were kept runless until the ninth inning. Bayless and Jordan, the first two men up, got out, then Stockdale lost control and hit Winters and Smith. McMurray was then put in to run for the former and Kirkpatrick for the latter. They immediately started a double steal and pulled it off. Hardy threw wild to third to catch McMurray and he scored, and when the left elder threw wild to third to catch Kirkpatrick, he scored, thus winning the game.

Fisher will probably twirl against his former teammates today, and opposed to him will probably be Schultz. Smith and Hardy will probably work behind the bat again.

New Orleans, May 17.—The locals could not solve Guese's delivery until the eighth inning, when a base on balls and three safe hits, one a triple, scored three runs and overcame the Montgomery lead of one run, obtained through loose playing in the previous inning. It was a pitchers' battle, and one of the best games of the season.

Americans Win at Polo.

London, May 17.—The Meadowbrook, Long Island, polo team today defeated a team made up of Great Britain's best players at Hurlingham, 8 to 4, and, as a result, English players are fearful for the outcome of the contests in which the Americans are to compete next month for the American cup, a trophy that has been held by the Hurlingham club since 1886.

GREAT FIGHT IS EXPECTED

The mill between Al Christensen and Young Hugo, at Amory hall, on West Mitchell street, tonight, bids fair to be one of the fastest that has been pulled off in Atlanta since boxing matches became one of the real sports.

Young Hugo, who is not really Young Hugo, but a well-known business man of Atlanta, surprised the fight fans a few weeks ago by putting Christensen to sleep at Lakewood when half the town was betting the other way. Then Christensen cried for another battle, and Hugo agreed to give it to him. The result was a date arranged for Tuesday night, and Armory hall was named as the place for the meeting. A number of reserved seats have been placed in the armory, and there will be accommodations for about 1,000 persons.

The fight will start at 8:30 o'clock, and there will be several preliminaries. Hugo says this will be his last fight, as he will quit the ring this time, win or lose, and in the future devote himself to his own line of work. Christensen says he will make short work of Hugo, as he is in perfect condition.

HARRY STATEN WILL FIGHT BILLY BOWMAN

Fresh as a daisy, after fourteen years of fighting and training of fighters, Harry Staten will reenter the ring on Tuesday night, ready and willing to knock the head off Billy Bowman, the famous Tennessee welterweight, whose home town is none other than Chattanooga.

Staten is managing this fight, of course, and in addition to his own bout, which will be the headliner, and at 10 rounds, there will be a couple of rattling preliminaries.

No welterweight who ever fought in the south has a better record than Staten. Born in the classic village of Caseyville, Ill., he began sparring when only a bit of a kid, and stuck to it steadily, first at St. Louis and then at Atlanta.

Barring the time when Fred Douglas, of Philadelphia, slipped across his famous surprise party on Staten before an Atlanta club, several years ago, the local man has never met defeat.

Since retiring from active fighting he has spent several years in training young fighters, and has thus kept in the pink of condition.

Staten is a remarkably good man at sparring, and knows all the tricks. He has a punching bag strung up in the rear of his grocery store on Marietta street, and keeps in trim there when not working elsewhere.

STATE HUNTERS GET TOGETHER

Over 100 Georgia sportsmen who are anxious for the state to establish and enforce a general game law will meet in the senate chamber at the state capitol at 10 o'clock this morning. The object of the meeting is to indorse a law that it may go through the legislature during the next session.

There will be present sportsmen from all over the state. Charles L. Davis, of Warm Springs, will preside.

It is the consensus of opinion among sportsmen that Georgia practically has no game laws, the season for quail is too long, it is believed, and the law as it stands is not enforced.

The meeting this morning will frame a general law to protect all kinds of game, especially quail, which are rapidly becoming smaller in numbers all over the state. Other game, doves, pheasants, etc., will also be looked after by the sportsmen who hope to get up a law that will make Georgia a great state for game.

BETTING IS STOPPED AT MEMPHIS GROUNDS

Memphis, Tenn., May 17.—(Special.)—Apparently desperate in their attempts to successfully back the local team with so-called whisper wagers in violation of the Southern League constitution, which prohibits gambling on the grounds, the gambling fraternity who have always been more or less a source of evil to the Memphis Baseball Association, are making life miserable for the Turtles by caustic criticism hurled from the bleachers and stands during the frequent defeats.

During the past week the disgruntled sporting element became so boisterous that police were needed to protect a crippled fan who had wagered on the visiting team and who, with taunts and howls of derision at the losing performance put forth by the locals, enraged some of his near neighbors so that President Coleman immediately ordered a more vigorous attempt from the park police to enforce the anti-gambling laws in the park.

President Coleman has come to the conclusion that in order to stop the betting evil it will be necessary to apprehend every one caught in the act of whispering a bet or changing money for wagers and the penalty, which is ejection from the grounds, will be rigidly enforced in the future. A big sign with words looming up this way, "No Gambling Allowed on These Grounds," has been stationed in conspicuous spots.

BICYCLE RACE SOON FOR HIGH SCHOOL BOYS

One of the big amateur events which will be pulled off soon will be the big bicycle race, to be held by the members of the Boys' High school. Most of the boys who ride bicycles in the school will enter the race.

The race will start out Peachtree and go to Buckhead, Ga., and back.

Prizes have been offered by some of the leading firms in the city, which the boys fully appreciate. Here are the prizes:

The first prize will be a five-dollar pair of tires and a $1 belt, the tires given by Gus Castle, and the belt given by Geo. Muse Clothing Co. The second prize will be $5 worth of trade at Elyea-Austell Bicycle Co. The third prize will be $1.50 stick-pin (or pair of cuff buttons), given by Daniel Bros., clothiers. The fourth prize will give the winner the privilege of picking the best baseball bat in the sporting department of King Hardware Co. The fifth prize will be a pair of slippers given by the Stewart Shoe Co. The sixth and last prize will be $1 worth of soda checks or any other $1 article at Jester's, the ice cream store, corner of Edgewood and Pryor.

The race is only open to High school boys, as there is just enough riders who are expected to enter from the High school to make the race a hot one. The finish will, no doubt, be a hot and close one. The boys are all swift riders, but it is hard to pick a winner.

COMPLETE MARKET NEWS AND STATISTICS

OLD CROP MONTHS SHOW SOME STRENGTH

Cotton Market Closed Steady at Net Advance of 9 to 15 Points.

New York, May 17.—The feature of today's cotton market was the strength of old crop months which made new high records for the season and the close was steady at net advance of 9 @15 points.

The market opened steady, at an advance of 14 points on May and 3 points lower to 4 higher on later positions. Cables were a shade disappointing, but had rallied sharply from an early decline before the local opening, while early reports of light rains in the southwest were offset, to some extent, by fears of too much moisture in eastern and central sections of the belt. Large English spot sales, reports of strong southern markets and of shipments from the local stock, seemed to be causing near month shorts a good deal of uneasiness, and in spite of more favorable Texas crop conditions, May sold up to 11.36 shortly after the call, or 21 points net higher, while later positions sold 10 to 16 points net higher. European shorts seemed to be chiefly responsible for this advance and, after the detailed weather reports had been received from Texas showing the rains had been rather more general and heavier than suggested by the early map, with the forecast calling for additional showers, the market eased off, under realizing and selling for a turn by local scalpers, with old crop months reacting to within 6@6½ opints of last week's close, while new crop sold about the final figures of Saturday. Later the whole list rallied on a renewal of support from local bulls and covering by early sellers, with most positions reaching the highest level of the day and with July selling at 10.99. Heavy realizing caused a slight reaction toward the close, but support was in evidence on a scale down.

Receipts at the ports today 8,664 bales, against 15,275 last week and 6,283 last year. For the week 85,000 bales, against 99,008 last week and 53,228 last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans 1,949, against 1,600 last year.

Spot closed quiet, 30 points higher; middling uplands 11.65; do. gulf 11.90; sales 4,500 bales.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 17.—Cotton, spot were firm; low middling 7c nominal; ordinary 7 13-16 nominal; good ordinary 9¼; low middling 10⅜; middling 10 11-16; good middling 11 1-16; middling fair 11 7-16; fair 12 3-16 nominal. Receipts 1,949; stock 205,604; sales on the spot 1,500 bales, to arrive 450. Futures opened steady, unchanged to 2 points lower. Cables were favorable, but the ring hesitated to follow the lead of the bulls owing to general rains in Texas, which brought relief to a large cotton country. After the first call the old crop months showed decided strength on rumors of a squeeze in May in New York and gradually the price was forced up to about 11c for July. Here around noon longs took profits freely and prices sagged for a while, but in the afternoon session the advance was resumed and new high prices for the season were established, July touching 11.05, at the top July was 19 points higher than Saturday's closing and the new crops were 13 to 14 up. On the closing the tone was steady and prices were at a net advance of 11 to 17 points.

Dry Goods.

New York, May 17.—The cotton goods market opened steady today and with a fair business reported in some quarters of the primary markets. Reports from retail centers indicate a warmer weather. Raw silk is being bought from the new crop by American mills. The leading dress goods agencies say a fair amount of duplicating for fall deliveries is going on. Cotton yarns are steadier

Liverpool Cotton.

Liverpool, May 17.—Close: Cotton, spot moderate business done; prices 1 point lower. American middling fair 6.34; good middling 5.98; middling 5.78; low middling 5.60; good ordinary 6.31; ordinary 4.96. The sales of the day were 10,000 bales, of which 1,000 were for speculation and export, and included 9,200 American. Receipts 18,000 bales, including 13,600 American. Futures opened easier and closed barely steady.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 17.—Good showers again fell in many sections of central and southwestern Texas on Saturday and Sunday nights, with indications for unsettled weather tonight. These advices brought realizing orders on the first improvement, but, as before, the market turned quickly on the appearance of good buyers, looking for a poor government crop report, with a reduced acreage throughout the lower Mississippi valley on account of the ravages of the boll weevil. The close was steady, a shade lower than the best, but an optimistic feeling pervades the trade, and the belief in higher prices is widespread on improving business later on in Europe, together with a moderate crop prospect Liverpool should be 2 or 3 points higher on January tomorrow.

Coffee.

New York, May 17.—The market for coffee futures closed steady, net unchanged to 5 points higher. Sales were reported of 23,750 bags, including May at 7.10@7.15; June 6.70; July 6.60; September 6.10; December 5.90.

STRENGTH OF WHEAT SURPRISED TRADERS

Chicago, May 17.—Wheat prices made an unexpected advance today, despite bearish statistics, the market closing strong at net gains of 1-2@6-8c to 1 1-8@1 1-4c. Corn and oats closed easy and provisions steady.

The tendency of wheat prices today was a greater surprise to many pit traders, a number of whom had sold short in the previous session on the theory that the weekly statistics would be of a bearish nature. The forecast on the week's statistics proved correct, but the market failed, except at the immediate opening, to be affected by liberal world's shipments and a decrease of 3,000,000 bushels in the amount of breadstuff on ocean passage. Some weakness was manifested at the start, following a decline of 1 1-2d to 1 1-8d at Liverpool and initial quotations were a shade higher to 5-8@3-4 lower than Saturday's close, but in the first few minutes all of the loss was regained and prices advanced later to a point 1c above the final figures of the previous session. The July delivery manifested the greatest buoyancy and was in active demand by leading commission houses and shorts. The buying was based in part on crop damage reports from the southwest, a number of advices claiming that although the fall-sown crop had been greatly benefited by recent rains many sections were still in need of moisture. A decrease of 2,467,000 bushels in the visible supply in the United States and light primary receipts encouraged additional buying. During the day the July option ranged between $1.12 3-4 and $1.14 1-2. The market closed strong with July at $1.14 1-4.

Selling by commission houses, based on prospects of increased receipts caused a heavy tone in the corn market nearly all day. There was also considerable selling of the May delivery by local holders. Receipts at St. Louis showed a material increase and it was generally thought that the arrivals here would be much larger within a few days. The bulge in wheat had a tendency to check the selling. The July delivery displayed relative firmness and closed at a gain of 1-8c, compared with Saturday's close, but other options were 1-8 to 5-8c lower than the previous close.

Oats were subjected to heavy selling pressure all day because of favorable crop reports, country houses being free sellers of the deferred futures. The close was weak with prices unchanged to 1-4c lower than Saturday's close. July ranged between 50 1-2@51 1-8@51 1-4c and closed at 50 7-8c.

Provisions were rather weak at the start, owing to liberal receipts of live hogs at western packing centers, but became firmer on covering by shorts. Trade was quiet nearly all day. At the close, prices were 2 1-2@5 to 7 1-2c higher.
